

COOLIDGE PUTS NAME TO NAVY BUILDING BILL

Fifteen Cruisers and One Aircraft Carrier To Be Constructed Under Appropriation of Funds.

JULY 1 DATE SET TO BEGIN BUILDING

Coolidge Formerly Opposed to Time Provision of Bill Ignores It After Conference.

Washington, February 13.—(AP)— Overlooking his objection to its time restriction clause, President Coolidge today approved the naval construction bill under which 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier will be laid down before July 1, 1931.

The measure was signed shortly after the president had conferred with leaders of both parties in congress on means for providing money for beginning the construction, and of preventing the enactment of other measures calling for expenditures in the present fiscal year.

Bureau's Recommendation.
The budget bureau has recommended that $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 be appropriated under the bill for use in the 1929-1930 fiscal year, with a small amount, as yet unspecified, available for the current year. Chairman Hale, of the senate naval committee, who attended today's conference, predicted that the appropriation would be included in the annual navy department supply bill which is now in conference.

Under the terms of the measure, five cruisers of 10,000 tons each, the maximum tonnage allowed by the Washington treaty, must be laid down in each of the fiscal years of 1929, 1930 and 1931, with work started on the aircraft carrier vessel of 13,500 tons, before the expiration of that period.

Opposed Time Provision.
President Coolidge was sternly opposed to this time provision and urged that it be eliminated by the senate.
On the ground that it called for expenditures in future years with no advance knowledge of what the budget situation may be at those times. The senate, however, disregarded the chief executive's recommendation and the bill was sent to him with the time clause in-act.

In addition to Senator Hale, those who attended today's conference were Senators Curtis and Robinson, the republican and democratic majority leaders, respectively, of the senate, and Representative Tamm, of Tennessee, majority and minority leaders of the house, and Chairman Clegg, of the committee.

After the presidential action, Chairman Britten, of the house naval committee, in a statement of the capitol, said that "no false economy should be permitted by the navy department, the bureau of the budget, or the appropriating committees in congress to interfere with the construction."

Says Ships Are Needed.
He declared the ships were needed because the "accepted principle of the Washington conference has been violated by each of its signatories excepting the United States."

"The president knows better than anyone else," he added, "that the limitation of ships of war failed because our representatives would not agree to limit our navy to the kind of ships best adapted to British uses. The president also knows that at the very moment when France and England were agreeing to the Kellogg pact to outlaw war, they were already in a secret agreement to submerge American sea power. Public condemnation in England and in France has caused the scrapping of this unfriendly agreement."

"President Coolidge knows that the Lord Birkenhead naval construction program which has been secretly adopted by the British government is a distinct menace to the balance of the world. More convincing than all of these acknowledgments is the outstanding fact that the accepted principle of the Washington conference has been violated by each of its signatories excepting the United States, thus leaving the American navy far behind the 5-5-3 ratio."

JARDINE REMOVES SELF AS POSSIBLE
CABINET MEMBER

Announces He Has Accepted Position as Counsel for Body of Fruit and Vegetable Growers.

Washington, February 13.—(AP)—
Secretary Jardine announced today that he would resign as head of the department of agriculture March 4 to accept a position as counsel for the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers with offices in Washington.

Mr. Jardine removed himself from consideration as a possible member of President-elect Hoover's cabinet in a formal statement which declared that "because of obligations to my family and for my own personal interest I feel I must retire to private life."

The agriculture secretary said he had accepted the position with the fruit and vegetable growers federation with the understanding that he will give to it only such time as may be necessary for the conduct of its business, thus leaving him free to participate in other agricultural activities.

Mr. Jardine said he had discussed his business negotiation with Mr. Hoover and in considering the many proposals which have been presented to him he had expressed "the wish to remain in Washington in order that I might give Mr. Hoover and his administration every possible aid."

Arthur R. Rule, executive vice president of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, said today that the federation had no desire to monopolize the time and effort of Mr. Jardine, but that on the contrary he wished him to have unlimited freedom in giving to the cooperative marketing movement as a whole the results of his experience and the benefit of the policies which the agriculture secretary has advocated.

In making his announcement, Secretary Jardine said he had held the secretary position for four years and all that would be expected of one who must make a personal sacrifice to perform federal service.

"During the past four years," he said, "I have consistently held that the stabilization of agricultural production and prices is our most urgent economic problem, and that the only method of solving it is through the marketing associations and stabilization corporations must be the basis of aid extended by the federal government; and that we should greatly increase our agricultural research; and that we must keep the domestic market for the American farmer."

The retiring secretary, who has been a vigorous opponent of the equalization fee principle in government aid to agriculture, declared that he believed the McNary bill now before congress would solve many of the problems of the farmers of the nation since the war.

Secretary Jardine was appointed by President Coolidge in 1925 to succeed
Howard M. Gore. His home is in Manhattan, Kan., although he is a native of Idaho. Before his appointment to the cabinet, he was president of the Kansas State Agricultural college.

CASH BILL PARLEY

Washington, February 13.—(United News.)—House and senate committees, deadlocked over the issue of the $24,000,000 for prohibition expenditures in the first deficiency appropriation bill, may settle their differences by a compromise, the United News learned tonight.

Representative Cramton, republican, Michigan, leader of the house dry forces, who opposed appropriation of the extra funds, told the United News the house would vote any extra money for enforcement work requested by the treasury.

The conference, which opened Tuesday night with an address by Judge Antonio de Bustamante, member of the judicial body of the world court, began the second day with a series of round table discussions on important subjects of government and citizenship. In the morning session, Professor Paul M. Bryan, of the Lamar School of Law, conducted a round table discussion on the "Constitution of the United States."

Afternoon sessions of the conference were marked by round table conferences led by Judge Bustamante, in which he presented the idea that the world court would become firmly established, as soon as the peoples of the world learned that they had nothing to fear from it. "It is in the trial stage right now," he said. "Walter cussion groups on 'The Constitution

At the luncheon Wednesday noon, Adamantios Polyzoides, editor of the Atlanta, New York Greek newspaper, brought out the fact that the foreign language vote has very little influence in the last presidential election, as the naturalized foreigners were beginning to think for themselves

COMPOSITE GROUP
TO MEET FEB. 25

Ragsdale's Special Body
Will Not Gather Again Until After Other Committee Tries Its Hand.

Solution of the financial problem presented the Atlanta city government by operation and maintenance of the public school system, which solution is a prerequisite of issuance of the proposed $8,000,000 in bonds for municipal improvements, remained unsolved Wednesday night, following a meeting of the special committee named by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to make recommendations.

The committee adjourned Wednesday afternoon after a short session, without taking any action after William A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta schools, and Jere A. Wells, superintendent of the Fulton county system, had appeared before it.

Declines to Discuss Case.
Mr. Sutton declined to enter unreservedly into a discussion of the school situation, citing as his reason the fact that a composite committee on which there are four board members is to consider the same problem at a meeting slated for February 25.

He held it would be "unbecoming of me, only an executive officer of the board of education, to recommend prematurely."

This reacted to cut the meeting short without concrete action, but the announcement by Alderman Claude Ashley, chairman, that the committee could never recommend a bond issue until the school financial tangle had been unraveled. Any plan must be evolved, it was indicated, by the composite committee headed by Alderman J. Charles Murphy, of the 11th ward, and composed of four members from the board of education, four from the school board and four from a citizens advisory committee.

Meeting Is Called.
Mr. Sutton called his committee to meet at the city hall at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday, February 25.

At the meeting was opened, Mr.
Ashley declared that consideration of the school problem was the purpose of the meeting and asked Mr. Sutton to state his position.

"Since I do not know exactly what you want to ask or what you want me to say, I am not sure just what to say," Mr. Sutton replied.

"We want to know if you can suggest any solution of the financial problem," Mr. Ashley replied.

"But the fact is, Mr. Sutton, you entered his objection to making any recommendation prior to the meeting of the composite committee."

"Superficial optimism has become one of the greatest foes to democracy in the United States," declared Dr.

professor and author of the "Advancing South" and other widely known books. In two addresses delivered last evening at the annual meeting of the university, the second day of the eastern citizenship conference heard Dr. Mims discuss the south and the nation.

Sheriff Says Older Wom-

St. Joseph, Mich., February 13.— (AP)—Sheriff Fred G. Bryant said tonight that Mrs. Okel Gorham, 23, had confessed she was present Sunday morning when her mother, Mrs.
Ethel Lewis, 49, poisoned and strangled the infant son of the younger woman and had formerly charged her mother killed three other grandchildren and four children of her own.

The young mother whose home is in Dowagiac, Mich., charged earlier in the day that her mother had killed five infant children but in a signed statement tonight increased the number to eight.

"Ma put dope in the milk and choked it," Mrs. Gorham said when questioned about the death of the boy, Clarence Wesley, 17 months old, who died early Sunday morning.

"I seen her choke it with her hand," she had asserted previously that her mother gave the child poisoned milk Saturday night and said the boy died in her arms after crying throughout the night.

Mrs. Lewis, Sheriff Bryant said, admitted placing the child in the milk but denied choking the boy or causing the deaths of the seven other children.

"It's a lie, they're all lies," Mrs.
Lewis shouted. "The girl must be crazy."

The younger woman asserted in her confession that she also witnessed the poisoning of another daughter, Isabelle Gorham, but said she was not a witness to the deaths of the others.

The children, Mrs. Gorham charges, were strangled and poisoned by her mother, besides Clarence Wesley and Isabella were Louise Jane Gorham,
18 months old, who died in February, 1922; Mary Jane Gorham, 15 months old, died in November, 1926; two twin daughters of the elder woman, born of a former marriage to Henry W. Lewis.

Coolidge Goes Into Twilight Still Popular

Last of "Pure Yankee" Presidents Has Been "Eternal Mystery" to Washington.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, February 13.—(United News.)—When he signed the cruel bill today President Coolidge practically completed the major work of his administration.

Evidence of the approaching change is everywhere. The white house has made known that after the inaugural ceremonies March 4, the president will head for Northampton, Mass. At Miami, Mr. Coolidge, he announced today he will leave for Washington Monday or Tuesday to make final preparations for moving into the white house.

Twilight thus begins to settle over the administration of Calvin Coolidge.
He leaves the white house with less heartache, less regret and with more genuine contentment in his soul than has been the case with most of his predecessors. Usually the burial of inauguration is followed quickly by criticism, opposition and even personal animosities which oftentimes wreck lifelong friendships.

Roosevelt left the white house re-
rarily heartbroken. To Wilson the presidency brought one of the great tragedies of modern statesmanship.
Harding shed unhappiness at the discovery that friends had betrayed him.

But Coolidge—the eternal mystery of Washington—still pleasantly piques
the interest of the capital, and apparently of the nation, as keenly as he did when he took the oath of office by the light of the oil lamp in his father's farmhouse in Vermont, in August, 1901.

A timely effort to set the country straight as to the Coolidge personality is made today in "Presidents I've Known," by Charles Willis Thompson, a veteran political correspondent.
Robbs Merrill has released the book for publication just as the interest of the country in the man who has presided over the nation's affairs presidential aura becomes keener.
Thompson has known presidents and national political figures from Bryan and McKinley to Coolidge. He knows the real man from the stage make-up. Hear him on Coolidge:

The only reason why Calvin Coolidge was such a mystery to so many twentieth century Americans lies in the fact that he is a pure yankee, and that the pure yankee is an expiring and unfamiliar race.

"When you track the vanishing yankee to his lair you find him shrewd, grave and internally humorous. Perhaps because he is not al-

The aid of the department of justice

The resolution asks inquiry into and the committee voted unanimously to ask that a preliminary investigation be made by the attorney gen-that these days because the flappers won't stick to one boy more than two later special "valentines" were manu-

TO MEET TONIGHT

Gathering at Emory Ex-

Toward Merger of Fulton and DeKalb.

What is expected to be the first definite step looking toward unification of Fulton and DeKalb counties is scheduled to be accomplished tonight when the North Druid Hills Civic club, meeting in special session at the Emory university auditorium, will name a steering committee to work with all DeKalb public and private interests seeking the merger of the two counties.

At the same time the proposed unification will be discussed by citizens of Kirkwood at a meeting at the East Lake schoolhouse. Councilman W. E.
Saunders will attend both meetings and act as liaison between residents of the two sections in putting forth their views on the plan, Bruce Moran, president of the North Druid Hills organization, announced Wednesday.

"Our organization is going to get down to business on the merger proposal tomorrow night," Mr. Moran said. "There has been a great deal of talk in recent months about the unification and nothing has been done as yet. We propose to name our committee and direct that it work with committees and representatives of other organizations whom we feel sure will follow us in the matter."

Mr. Moran said that Councilman Saunders, head of the board of fire-masters, also would discuss proposed fire protection for the Druid Hills section. The councilman will be present at the beginning of the Kirkwood meeting at East Lake and later at the meeting at Emory, which is to begin at 8 o'clock. Later, Mr.
Saunders will return to East Lake and report on the business transacted by the North Druid Hills club.

"Thus far there is little or no opposition in the path of unification but there does not seem to be a definite movement under way," Mr. Moran said. "We want to assist all persons and organizations in learning the situation and putting the merger proposal before all in as good a light as is possible. When we do this we feel sure that unification will await only the indorsement of the voters."

Other speakers at the North Druid Hills meeting tonight will be Mr. Moran and Howard Candler.

SEPARATE TRAFFIC COURTS BLOCKED

Police Committee Proposes To Allow Autoists To Post Fines on First Three Offenses.

Sweeping revision of ordinances governing traffic law violations providing that offenders may post collateral and not be forced to appear in recorder's court to answer charges for the first three offenses was seen Wednesday night following the regular semi-monthly meeting of the police committee of city council.

The committee turned down a proposal by Councilman Joseph Berman, of the fourth ward, to establish a separate court for trial of traffic cases because of inadequate facilities, but empowered Alderman J. Charles Murphy, chairman, to confer with Murphy M. Holloway and A. W. Callaway, recorders, with a view of arranging a separate docket for traffic cases and for posting of "fines" without having to appear in court.

Mr. Murphy will make his recommendations at the next meeting of the committee following a conference with the recorders.

Among the matters discussed in the conference were an occupational tax
on business enterprises in the county, gradual elimination of the "Not on Digest" book by invocation of the double penalty for failure to make returns, and cooperation between the various county tax departments.

Mr. Johnson told the board of commissioners that the little taxpayer has been carrying the burden of the county tax, and that the burden of the county tax has been getting by on returns value of their property, as for in-you hard-boiled bosses who bowl out all the office force because they're

This is the day that comes once a year for young Dan Cupid to make whoopie among the lovers. All the world loves the lovers, particularly the installment furniture men, the build-cleaner and fireless cooker men and the baby carriage merchants.

It's also the day when the kids send comic valentines to the teachers.
And send honey sweet messages to their little towheaded and pigtailed sweethearts. The teachers will get gaudy-colored combs labeled "Old Mail" and "Old Man Big Nose" or "Long Ears," and some of the bad boys will draw pictures of teacher on the

REVISED COUNTY TAX PLAN SOUGHT

Legislation to reform the tax system of Fulton county will be sought in the state legislature next June, it was announced Wednesday by Edwin F. Johnson, county receiver of tax returns, following a conference between tax officers and the commissioners of roads and revenues.

The bills to be introduced in the assembly will be designed to provide for a system of property transfers whereby all deeds will have to be submitted to the tax receiver for entry on his records before they are accepted by the superior court clerk for record, and to provide for issuance of building permits and institution of building regulations in the county outside of the incorporated municipalities.

Mr. Johnson discussed with the board of commissioners at an informal meeting the problems he has found confronting him in the tax receiver's office, and was assured that the completion of a survey giving the names of all property owners will be rushed so that the maps will be available within the next year. The seventeenth militia district survey is on returns under the direction of Gene Roberts, and the fourth and fourteenth districts will be surveyed as soon as possible, it was stated.

To Draw Bills.
Mr. Johnson will draw the necessary bills with the aid of Charles
B. Shelton, county attorney.

Among the matters discussed in the conference were an occupational tax
on business enterprises in the county,

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh on his arrival in Miami, Fla., after a flight to Panama and return as first pilot over newly inaugurated air mail route to Central America of Pan-American Airways, Inc. Shown in photo just after he had unloaded cargo of mail are, left to right: Harry Lee Buskey, radio operator of plane; Mayor E. G. Sewell, of Miami; Colonel John Hambleton, who accompanied Lindbergh; Owen S. Pittman, Miami postmaster, and Lindbergh. Associated Press telephoto.

Business flourished on the Atlanta-Miami air mail route Wednesday, when the mail was so heavy that all of it could not be carried in the regular plane, which departed for the south Florida city at 5:45 o'clock in the morning. A second ship was necessary and it began its roaring journey toward Miami at about 11:15 o'clock, with Pilot Johnny Kytte at the controls.

Postmaster General New announced in Washington Wednesday that effective March 1, 1929, Macon, Daytona Beach, Orlando and Tampa would be made stopping points on the air mail route between Atlanta and Miami. This will give these cities a direct connection with the New York-Atlanta overnight mail service. The schedule for the route (eastern time) will call for a plane to leave Atlanta at 6:45 a. m., arrive at Macon, 7:40 a. m.; Jacksonville, 10 a. m.; Daytona Beach, 11 a. m.; Orlando, 11:45 a. m.; Tampa, 12:30 p. m. and Miami, 1:45 p. m. This route will run daily except Monday and days after holidays.

On the northbound journey from Miami to Atlanta, a plane will leave Miami at 12:30 p. m. (eastern time), arrive at Tampa at 2:25 p. m.; Orlando, 2:35 p. m.; Daytona Beach, 3:05 p. m.; Jacksonville, 4:25 p. m.; Macon, 6:40 p. m. and Atlanta at 7:30 p. m., which, of course, is 8:30 o'clock, central time. This route will run daily, except Sunday and holidays, according to the arrangements which have been made.

William R. Hartsfield, former chairman of the aviation committee of city council, Wednesday was presented with a handsome watch by Candler field pilots, in appreciation of the former alderman's efforts in behalf of the Atlanta airport. Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the fifth ward, and present chairman of the aviation committee, was spokesman for the fliers.

Reeler Blevins, well-known local pilot, Wednesday was principal speaker before the weekly meeting of the Atlanta Masonic club, which gathered for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Winifred hotel. Under the topic of the "Romance of Aviation," Mr. Blevins related a number of amusing and thrilling experiences he has had during his flying career, which has extended over a period of 13 years.

Radio principles have been applied to the perfection of a new aircraft altimeter designed to safeguard low altitude flying and landing under all kinds of weather and visibility conditions, including the densest fogs. The non-barometric altimeter is the invention of Dr. Ross Gunn, a young research scientist of the United States naval laboratory at Washington and a patent covering it was granted this week by the United States patent office. Thirty hours of actual test in an army Fokker and a navy torpedo plane have served to convince expert observers that the Gunn altimeter will indicate true height above ground up to 100 feet.

The device is not intended to replace the barometric altimeter but is primarily a means of preventing accidents during those last few feet that count most while flying low to a landing. Barometric altimeters, which almost invariably are "set" to give the altitude above the starting point of the plane or above a particular sea level, are relatively inaccurate at low altitudes and are of very little aid in determining the absolute position of a plane with relation to uneven terrain, such as hills and mountains or with respect to changing sea level.

Airplanes are being used for the first time this winter in the troublesome task of maintaining power transmission in the mountainous country between Twin Falls, Idaho, and neighboring towns. Recently a serious break cut off power in three Idaho cities. It was estimated that 10 teams would require 10 days to pull the power line in heavy snow. The Idaho Power company chartered an Eaglerock plane with a "Hisso" motor and two company electricians, flown over the power route at a low altitude, located the trouble 20 miles from Twin Falls with the aid of high-powered binoculars. The pilot landed his plane in a nearby clearing and the "trouble-shooters" restored service three hours after the break was reported.

BORGLUM CLAIMS HE WILL RETURN TO MEMORIAL HERE

Des Moines, Iowa, February 13.—(P)—Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, today told the Des Moines Woman's club he would return to Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, to complete the carving of the Confederate figures from which he was dismissed in 1925. Borglum disclosed that the Stone Mountain Confederate Monument association has been urging him to again take charge of the gigantic frieze being chiseled out of the side of Stone Mountain. Negotiations, he said, are practically completed. "I was dismissed by the Stone Mountain association because it was charged that I dominated the entire project," the sculptor said. "I do not deny this. But I am going back and dominate the project without interference."

Representatives of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association Wednesday night stated that no new negotiations had been entered into with Gutzon Borglum and that his reemployment is not contemplated.

FILLING STATION ON LUCKIE STREET ROBBED OF $12

J. L. Shepard, manager of a Gulf Filling station on Cain and Luckie streets, told police Wednesday night that an unmasked white man held him up and robbed the cash register of $12. Call Officers Hambrick and Ginn investigated.

accompanied by Miss Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y.

Despite the anxiety of the navy department at Washington regarding Lindbergh's flying at night, the air hero upon his return from his initial relief expedition for the Hort plane insisted that he do everything within his power to assist a fellow pilot and hoped off for the second time from Miami at dusk.

TWO RESCUED BY TRAIN FERRY.

Miami, Fla., February 13.—(P)—Lieutenant Steven Callaway, United States navy flier, and R. I. Duntun, of Miami, were rescued today with the amphibian plane in which they were riding yesterday afternoon when they were forced down to the surface of the ocean 5 miles from Key West and in which they had floated all night. Their rescue was effected by a train ferry which towed the disabled craft to No Name key after it had sighted them several miles from its course from Matecumbe key to No Name key, which is 60 miles northeast of Key West.

They returned to Miami in a plane sent out for them, reaching here at 5:03 p. m. Their plane was left at No Name key.

The Finest of Food
Vacuum-Cooked • Ready-to-Serve

Tender and flavorful, canned PINK Salmon comes to you right from the icy waters of the north Pacific Ocean. Here is the most delicious and nutritious sea food you ever ate—packed and vacuum-cooked so none of the rich, natural oils and delicate flavors of the fresh fish have any chance of being lost. You will notice this freshness every time you open a can.

PINK Salmon is an excellent food. It is richer in protein or muscle and tissue-building elements than most any other food you can mention of anything near equal value—and costing much more to buy. The iodine content of PINK Salmon is also most important, being recommended in the diet of children and adults as a preventative of goiter.

Serve PINK Salmon frequently in dozens of different ways. There are many tasty, interesting dishes you can easily prepare. Our prize-winning Salmon recipes will help you—these 150 delicious Salmon suggestions were selected from thousands of recipes in our Thousand Dollar Contest. HEALTHFUL IODINE—U. S. Bureau of Fisheries says: "Goiter is very common in many parts of the United States, affecting in some instances, over 50% of the population. Iodine, or foods rich in iodine, have been found to be very efficient in the prevention and treatment of this disease. Sea-foods are rich in this essential element. . . Congress Is Clearing Up Loose Legislative Ends Ready for Adjournment

Many Minor Matters Settled in Both Houses as Members Strive for Clean Slate.

Washington, February 13.—(P)—Congress moved along rapidly today in its effort to bind up loose ends of its legislative duties before it goes out of office on March 4.

The formal notification that Hoover and Curtis had been elected in November, delivered by letters to a joint session, interrupted the regular procedure for a brief period and furnished an opportunity for some good-natured banter between republicans and democrats, but with this over the two houses and their committees drove forward.

In the senate the Caraway bill to curb speculation in cotton and grain futures was the principal business of the day. Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, its sponsor, expressed the belief that a vote might be obtained on it later tomorrow.

The house considered minor and uncontested legislation. The house has accomplished its main task of the session—the preparation and passage of the bills for appropriations necessary to run the government during the next fiscal year.

Committees Active.
Committee discussions ranged over a wide field. The views of paper manufacturers were given to the house ways and means committee. New York bankruptcy situation was before the house judiciary committee, which voted in favor of having the New York district include the administration of Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow in his investigation of the subject.

A favorable report on the nominations of Ira E. Robinson, of West Virginia; Harold Lafount, of Utah, and Eugene O. Sykes, of Mississippi, to be members of the federal radio commission was voted by the senate interstate committee, and later the senate confirmed their appointment. Another senate committee disapproved the move by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, to have the national origins clause of the immigration act remain ineffective for a longer period. The Fess bill to bring about railroad consolidation occupied the same committee's attention with Chairman Lewis, of the interstate commerce commission recording his general approval of the idea.

President Coolidge recommended to congress that $255,000 be made available for the federal board of vocational education for the fiscal year 1930. It would be used for carrying on vocational education in agriculture and economics.

Vice Presidency Home.
The president recommended that $208,000 be made available to the national advisory committee for aeronautics for scientific research.

A bill to provide $500,000 for the acquisition of a residence for the vice president was introduced by Representative Gibson, republican, Vermont. The measure would authorize a commission consisting of the vice president, the speaker of the house and the architect of the capitol to collect and acquire the residence either by gift or purchase.

The house passed the Kiehl bill to make various changes in the corporation laws of the Philippines. The measure now goes to the senate.

Among the principal changes the bill would make would be the extension of permission to corporations to deal in real estate and it also would authorize issuance of non par value stock and stock without voting power.

Adoption of his resolution to investigate the federal farm loan bank system was again urged upon the senate by Senator Blaine, democrat, South Carolina.

The senate today accepted house amendments to the bill of Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, to authorize an appropriation of $6,000,000 for loans to storm sufferers in southeastern states. The measure now goes to President Coolidge for his approval.

Hoover and Curtis Officially Elected At Joint Session
Washington, February 13.—(P)—Congress met in joint session today and went through the ceremony of appointing its officers for the next four years.

Observing the constitutional formula, the members of the two houses announced the result of the election in each state, arrived at a total, and this was made known to the congress by Vice President Davis with instructions that it be recorded in the journal of the two houses.

Neither Senator Curtis, the vice president-elect, nor Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, his defeated democratic opponent, were present while their colleagues witnessed the official defeat of the one and the victory of the other.

Laughter and applause time and again tempered the formality of the proceedings as the members linked campaign happenings with those of the day.

The galleries were crowded with persons who had gathered to witness the ceremony, but they were more disposed to heed the announcement of the vice president than were the members of congress.

Colonel Lindbergh's Fiancee

Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of Ambassador Morrow, whose betrothal to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, is announced. Photo by Eric Stahlburg, telephotoed by Associated Press.

Lindy Wedding Date Unset, Says Mother of Fiancee

BY G. S. FINE.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Mexico City, February 13.—Anne Spencer Morrow, who is betrothed to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, is expected to fly here late this month. He has been invited to open a new mail route from Brownsville, Texas, to the capital.

The quiet, dark-haired girl who has suddenly sprung into world-wide prominence by the announcement of her engagement, looks with great distaste on the necessary publicity, her mother said.

She is very shy and it would be a terrible ordeal for her to permit an interview, the mother related, adding she knew such publicity would be inescapable.

Anne's ability to write poetry—and excellent poetry, too—inspired the type of girl who will be Lindbergh's wife. She won a prize in the Poetry society competition in New York with a poem entitled "Height," which dealt with intellectual growth and carries the general idea of awakening of consciousness in a mental, rather than physical, manner.

Hundreds of Cables.
Mrs. Morrow explained that Anne had been receiving hundreds of cables of congratulation today—most of them from college friends. She attended Smith college.

Then she admitted that the romance budded without the Morrow family knowing "just how." She said she would not say how it started, and that she believed no one ever knew those things.

Mrs. Morrow said her daughter's interest both in college and school centered on literature, in which she majored at college. While at Chapin school in New York she played hockey but did not participate in athletics at Smith college.

Anne's particular extra-curricular activity in college was to act as one of the editors of the "Smith Monthly." Just before she departed for Mexico City last year she won the prize at a meeting of the Poetry society in New York with the poem called "Height." At such competitions the authors submit their work anonymously. The society then votes on the poems.

Published Poem.
Both Anne and her mother submitted work at that time but Anne's won and later was published in Scribner's of April, 1928, on the suggestion of Robert Bridges, an associate editor.

Anne is especially fond of poetry as well as of eighteenth century literature. On her graduation from college last year she won the Mary Augusta Jordan prize for the year's best piece of original writing. The subject was "Women of Doctor Johnson's Time."

Mrs. Morrow said Anne's records at college were good, but, despite this serious nature, she is not in the least delicate. She plays both golf and tennis but is not particularly fond of games.

Fear of Publicity.
Again and again it was emphasized that the Morrow family's greatest worry for the future of their daughter is the publicity, which, as Mrs. Morrow pointed out, is bound to come through marriage to one of the world's greatest celebrities.

The thought of the publicity is overpowering, Mrs. Morrow said, adding that Anne "has to be pushed even to attend diplomatic functions."

Mrs. Morrow said Anne's interest in Mexico was about the same as any other foreign girl and that she spends much time sight-seeing. Mexican color and beauty has appealed to Anne greatly, she said.

LINK HERRIN MAYOR WITH BIRGER GANG

Testimony Given at Trial of Brother Implicates Official With Liquor Gang

East St. Louis, Ill., February 13.—(P)—Testimony linking Mayor Marshall McCormack, of Herrin, Ill., scene of gang rioting, with the Charlie Birger gang of southern Illinois gunmen, was given today in his trial with his brother, Elmer, and Police Chief John Stamm, on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The trial opened after Alvin Karpis, water superintendent of Herrin, indicted with the other three, had pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Wham, Ralph Lesemann, assistant United States district attorney, said Karpis would testify for the government.

Art Newman, former lieutenant of Charlie Birger, testified that Mayor McCormack had loaned Birger a machine gun belonging to the Herrin police department and that it was never returned. He said that on another occasion McCormack had asked Birger to help defeat Oren Coleman for sheriff by intimidating Williamson county voters, Coleman later was elected.

McCormack was elected mayor in 1925 and was holding that office during the Herrin election riot of 1926 in which six persons were killed.

George Griffith, Herrin chief of police from May, 1925, until December, 1926, testified he had instituted the alleged system of extorting money from bootleggers at the suggestion of McCormack.

Ed Bokassi and John Garavaglia, confessed former bootleggers, testified they had paid "protection" money to the city officials.

The charges against the Herrin solons are similar to those on which Arlie O. Roswell, former state attorney of Williamson county, in which Herrin is located, was convicted with three other defendants recently. Roswell and former Coroner George Bell now are serving prison terms. Newman, who is under several life imprisonment sentences, also testified against Roswell and his codefendants.

PLANES WILL AID FIGHT AGAINST RAVAGES OF FLU

Toronto, Ont., February 13.—(P)—Major J. O. Leach, in charge of the provincial air force school at Sioux Lookout, Man., has been instructed to supply as many planes as are needed to transport medical supplies to fight the influenza epidemic among the Pickle lake Indians.

Dr. G. L. Bell, Sioux Lookout physician, who has been through the stricken area, said the epidemic had spread throughout the territory and that a number of prospectors had been attacked by the disease.

39 Foreign-Born Applicants Pass Citizenship Test

Of the 62 applicants for citizenship who had completed all government naturalization requirements, a total of 39 successfully passed the examinations conducted here the first three days of the week by Worthington Blackman, district director of naturalization, and took the oath of allegiance to the United States before Judge Sibley Wednesday morning. One more will take the oath this morning, bringing the total up to 40. Twelve cases were continued and ten applications for citizenship denied.

Mr. Blackman, speaking of his work in examining applicants, stated that many of the people who came before him for their final tests had lived in this country for years without knowing that they were subjects of foreign countries and that when they made application for a passport found that they could not obtain one from the United States.

He cited one instance in Birmingham recently, when, as a matter of interest, he questioned a number of people who came to the polls to vote and found that 42 were subjects of foreign countries. "There are many instances when people really think that they are United States citizens only to find out to their sorrow that they are not," he stated. "It would save trouble for all if they would make inquiries and lose no time in taking the steps necessary to acquire citizenship."

ASK CUT ON CUBAN DUTY ON U.S. IMPORTED GOODS

Would Exchange Slash for Free Duty on Huge Sugar Shipment.

Havana, February 13.—(P)—Dr. Santiago Rey, conservative in the Cuban house of representatives, today asked the house for a 50 per cent cut in Cuban import duties on American goods as a proposed exchange offering for free United States entry of 3,500,000 tons of Cuban sugar each year.

Dr. Rey says this plan should be mutually acceptable to the United States and Cuba as a means of stabilizing Cuba's sugar industry.

"Free entry of 3,500,000 tons of Cuban sugar per year would in no way affect domestic producers of the United States," he said. "In exchange American manufacturers of other products would receive the advantages of our present reciprocity treaty, plus 50 per cent Cuban tariff reduction."

"It would enable us to intensify manufacture of cane by-products for export to the United States and give cheap access to United States products which are too expensive, under our tariff system, for the average purchaser."

Dr. Rey admitted that his plan might read here by his countrymen, but prefaced his address by urg-

HOUSE BILL CALLS FOR ANNUAL STUDY OF P. I. CONDITIONS

Washington, February 13.—(P)—The house today passed a bill to provide for the appointment of a congressional board of visitors to make a biennial inspection of and report upon the government and economic conditions in the Philippine islands. The measure now goes to the senate.

ASH WEDNESDAY CELEBRATED HERE IN CHURCH RITES

Wednesday, designated on the religious calendar as Ash Wednesday and constituting the first of the 40 days of Lent, was celebrated with colorful services in Catholic and Episcopal churches of Atlanta.

Official approval and endorsement of the series of daily Lenten services being conducted at the Baptist tabernacle by the Christian churches of Atlanta was voted unanimously Wednesday afternoon by the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

The endorsement was given at the suggestion of the Rev. R. L. Russell, president of the Christian council of Atlanta, which is sponsoring a series of noon-day services for business men and others during the Lenten season, inviting them to forget "filthy nationalisms" and settle down to discovery of a practical method of commercial relationship with the United States.

SENATE TO ACT SOON ON FUTURES MEASURE

Unanimous Consent To End Debate Is Refused.

Washington, February 13.—(P)—The opinion was expressed in the senate today by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, that a final vote would be reached tomorrow or Friday on his bill to prevent the sale of cotton and grain in future markets. He attempted to curtail further debate on the measure by seeking a unanimous consent agreement to that end, but objection was raised by Senator Black, democrat, Alabama.

Caraway then declared that it was his understanding that the discussion would exhaust itself by tomorrow evening and consequently he would not pursue his request for limitation on debate.

Before a vote on the Caraway bill is taken the senate will be called upon by Senator George, democrat, Georgia, to vote on a substitute measure, one introduced by Representative Vinson, democrat, Georgia, and passed by the house last month. The Vinson bill would impose certain restrictions upon futures trading and place it under regulation by the secretary of agriculture.

Several senators most closely associated with the legislation said they hoped the move to substitute the Vinson bill would be successful.

TWO ADDITIONAL SECRETARIES VOTED FOR NEW PRESIDENT

Washington, February 13.—(P)—Congressional action was completed today on the independent offices appropriation bill after a separate vote had been demanded in the house upon a senate amendment to give Herbert Hoover three additional secretaries when he becomes president.

The conference report, carrying the senate change and under regulation by a record vote after several members had propounded an unanswered inquiry as to why the incoming president should need three secretaries.

Representative Abernathy, democrat, North Carolina, asked if the additional secretaries were needed to handle applications for jobs from southern states which voted for Hoover.

Chairman Wason, of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the bill, replied only that the recommendation had come from the budget bureau. No objection was raised to the amendment when it came to a vote, although Representative Jones, democrat, Texas, had raised a point of order against it which he said he would press if the proposal were not accepted by the house in a separate vote.

Artists Disagree On Picture Value On Witness Stand

New York, February 13.—(P)—The Russian artist, Vadim Chernoff, took the witness stand today and contradicted Sir Joseph Duveen, art dealer, who is being sued for $500,000 by Mrs. Andrew Laidlaw, of Kansas City, because he said her portrait, "La Belle Ferroniere," was not by Leonard Da Vinci.

Last week, analyzing the Hahn portrait, point by point, and comparing it with another portrait in the Louvre in Paris, which he said is generally accepted by critics as a genuine Da Vinci, Sir Joseph told the jury of 12 business men why he was sure the Hahn canvas was not from the brush of Da Vinci.

Today Chernoff, who said he was thoroughly familiar with Da Vinci and other Italian painters of the day, testified that the coloring of the Hahn painting was much clearer than that of the Louvre portrait. The ground work used in preparing the painting of "Mona Lisa," "The Virgin of the Rocks," and the Hahn picture was similar.

Last week Sir Joseph said that the neck in the Hahn picture was bad, that the skin did not look like real skin, and the hair was like "mud."

The naturalness of the lines of the shoulders, the neck, and the breast, said Mr. Chernoff today, standing before the Hahn canvas, "is apparent to the most untrained eye. I myself can see the clear outline of the flesh and muscle beneath as it would be in life. This portrait is a beautiful thing."

S. Lawrence, Mrs. Hahn's attorney, asked if the hair looked to him like "mud."

"Oh, no," replied the Russian, "how can you say such a thing?"

Chernoff, after testifying the Hahn picture, criticized the Louvre painting. The nose was bad, he said.

Mrs. Hahn preceded Chernoff on the witness stand. She said her husband, "La Belle Ferroniere," was given her by her grandmother as a wedding present when he married Harry Hahn of Kansas City. She said her husband had the picture for sale to Sir Joseph's firm, among others. Sir Joseph had declined to purchase it.

THINK TAXICAB DRIVER WAS SLAIN BY GANG MEMBERS

Camden, N. J., February 13.—(P)—An organized search was under way in the vicinity of Rummedale, near here, today for John Lowry, 20, taxi driver, who was slain by a gang of hoodlums, believed by the authorities to have been slain by gangsters.

A blood-stained taxicab, found in a lot near Rummedale, was identified as the one driven by Lowry when he disappeared from Scranton on February 2. The cab was found two days later. Its identification was established when Lowry's father, Earl Lowry, owner of the taxicab company, came here to aid in the search for his son. The wooded section surrounding the ravine was combed, but no trace of the missing man was found.

Mr. Lowry told the Camden county authorities he feared his son had been slain by a gang of hoodlums, and that the description of the man who had engaged the cab driven by his son tallied with that of a man arrested February 5 in Williamstown, N. J., with four others charged with counterfeiting.

PRESIDENT HEARS FLORIDA FLOOD CONTROL PLANS

Washington, February 13.—(P)—Representative Sears, democrat, Florida, discussed with President Coolidge today his bill under which $10,000,000 would be expended for flood control in the Caloosahatchee river and Lake Okechobee drainage areas.

Afterward Mr. Sears said the president was very much interested and had told him he would take the project up with the budget bureau.

Under the measure $6,000,000 would be appropriated by the federal government, with the state of Florida providing the remaining $4,000,000. Sears said it was particularly important that the bill be approved at this session as Florida is ready to provide her share of the cost at the coming session of the state legislature, which meets in April. Should the bill not be approved by the legislature, Congress, Sears feared a two-year delay would ensue in putting its provisions into effect, as the Florida legislature meets biennially.

ORGANIZED GANG OF PHILA. BANDITS NABBED BY POLICE

Philadelphia, February 13.—(P)—One of the most highly organized gangs of criminals in the city was believed under arrest today in the persons of six men whose confessions, according to police, cover the recent slaying in Baltimore of Benjamin Williams, aged grocer, and seven robberies in Philadelphia.

John Harris, 22, of Chester, Pa., and Herman Lewis, 28, of Philadelphia, Mercer, Philadelphia, were arrested at Folsom, Delaware, county, last night when their automobile crashed into a telephone pole.

Information was obtained from them which led to the arrest early today of Joseph Crane, Samuel Schwartz and Theodore Davis, all of this city.

Harris and Mercer are said to have confessed to the Baltimore slaying. Harris said he came from Holland, where he attended a university and where his father was a prominent public official. He declined to give his real name.

NO POISON FOUND IN THE REMAINS OF MRS. BARNHAM

Chicago, February 13.—(P)—An analysis of the organs of Mrs. Selma Barnham showed no traces of poisoning, Dr. Herman N. Bundson, coroner, reported today. Death was attributed to heart disease and pneumonia.

Mrs. Barnham died under what was regarded as mysterious circumstances two weeks ago, some months after the death of her husband, Sanford A. Barnham, wealthy slot machine manufacturer. She declared she had been given liniment to drink by Edward Riley, an associate of Barnham's.

Riley claims 55 per cent of Mrs. Barnham's estate, his right to which is being contested by the widow's relatives. Mrs. Barnham died after an operation for ulcers, and Riley declares the widow turned over that amount of the property in return for $5,000 and his executive services in handling the Barnham Mills company, manufacturing slot machines, and the Barnham Gum Vending company, a distributing organization. Both concerns have been ordered out of business by the state court which found the machines could be converted into gambling devices.

GOTHAM MUSIC CRITICS HEAR GANNA WALSKA

Show Variety of Opinion.

New York, February 13.—(P)—Metropolitan music critics were agreed today that Mme. Ganna Walska's first New York song recital was an entertaining spectacle. Estimates of her voice varied.

An audience composed of famous singers, society notables and other frankly curious gathered in Carnegie hall yesterday to listen to a group of classical songs by the wife of Harold McCormick, her adventures in search of a musical career have been the subject of widespread comment. Here are the views of critics:

Olin Downes, Times: "Mme. Walska did almost everything that a singer with a vicious technique could and should not do. Her upper tones were hard and most of them off pitch. Her tone was poorly focused and unsteady. The effect of such singing was not enhanced by the unfortunate and obvious nervousness of the performer, the jerking of her shoulders and certain involuntary gestures by which she betrayed inadequate control of her vocal resources and the tension under which she was laboring."

Her voice is not without pleasing quality; nor is she, as some have claimed, devoid of musical sensibility and feeling.

Francis D. Perkins, Herald Tribune: "An animated manner proved an expressive asset, but such interpretive effectiveness as Mme. Walska displayed was attained to no small extent by extra-musical means; vocally there was not much variety of color, and the restlessness of her stage manner was somewhat reflected in unflattering song. But what with this animation and marked attractiveness to the eye she gave a performance often entertaining, if not characterized by superior singing."

Samuel Chotzinoff, World: "Mme. Walska's voice might be the most tremendous we had ever heard, her breath too short to float successfully the musical phrases of Bach, or, for that matter any other composer, her musical instincts below the standards of Carnegie hall, yet these faults could not destroy our interest in the white-robed recitalist and the spectacle in general."

Leonard Liebberg, American: "Devolving nervousness afflicted Mme. Walska during the opening Bach numbers and palpably affected her control of tone and breath. It was, however, that she had knowledge of the meaning and style of the classical pieces, and her phrasing and mood interpretation showed purpose. The voice, when tranquility did not shake it, revealed limpid and agreeable quality."

RACE WITH DEATH WON BY ATTORNEY; DEATH WINS AT LAST

New York, February 13.—(P)—A race to reach the bedside of his wife, seriously ill of pneumonia, was won by Arthur Rose Vincent, lawyer, of Killarney, Ireland, yesterday, but she died a few hours later.

Mrs. Vincent, accompanied by her two children, Elizabeth, 14, and William, 9, arrived in this country last Wednesday on her way to San Francisco to visit her father, William B. Bourne. She became ill on the trip across and her husband boarded the next steamer. He left the Mauretania on a special tug at Quantico at 1:30 a'clock yesterday morning to reach her side as soon as possible. Mr. Vincent and the children will accompany the body to San Mateo, Calif., for burial. The marriage of the couple in San Francisco in 1900 was one of the outstanding social events of the Pacific coast.

MASONIC SECRETARIES REELECT F. A. JOHNSON

R. H. Carpenter, Also of Atlanta, Named Secretary at Macon Meeting.

Macon, Ga., February 13.—(AP)—Frank A. Johnson, Atlanta, was re-elected president of the State Association of Masonic Secretaries, in a closing session here this afternoon. A. S. Cohen, of Savannah, and R. H. Carpenter, Atlanta, also were re-elected vice president and secretary, respectively.

Some 200 secretaries of the Masonic lodges, councils, chapters and commanderies of Georgia attended the fourth annual meeting of the organization, held in the lodge rooms of Macon lodge No. 5. A number of officials of the Grand Lodge of Georgia also were present.

The association elected, in addition, the following district vice presidents: Mr. Cohen, W. A. Blanton, Albany; J. N. Pearson, Fitzgerald; H. H. Tinsinger, Carrollton; A. J. Jansen, Atlanta; W. H. Smallwood, Macon; H. D. Climer, Rome; J. O. Taylor, Brunswick; L. P. Smith, Helena; J. C. Thornton, Athens.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Johnson at 10 o'clock for a business session, in which Masonic affairs and instruction to new secretaries, elected January 1, was taken up. Shortly after 1 o'clock the assembly adjourned to attend a banquet at the Macon home.

The afternoon was given over to informal discussions and inspection of the grounds and print shop of the organization. A short social session followed at Macon lodge No. 5. Most of the visiting Masons departed for their homes tonight.

Among the officials of Masonry to attend were Raymond Daniel, Atlanta, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Georgia; F. O. Miller, Fort Valley, past grand master and trustee of the Macon home; C. H. Andrews, senior grand warden; J. T. Waldrop, Griffin, grand master of the grand council; and Frank F. Baker, Macon, grand secretary of the grand lodge.

FEDERAL JURY QUIZES HELFAND.

New York, February 13.—(AP)—Charges of irregularities against Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow became intertwined here today with investigation into bankruptcy. The federal grand jury questioned for several hours Marcus Helfand, bankruptcy attorney who has been named as the recipient of favor from the jury.

Helfand was one of two witnesses of the day and although he said nothing as he left the federal building, it was recalled he had been summoned almost simultaneously with the release of a house resolution introduced by Congressman Fiorella H. La Guardia calling for an inquiry into Judge Winslow's fitness for office.

The second witness was Edwin K. Bertine, also a lawyer and receiver in bankruptcy. Meyer Kaplan, ex-convict client of Helfand, was at the federal building, but was not questioned. It is expected he will testify tomorrow.

While the grand jury was in session it was known that Representative La Guardia had written David P. Siegel, former assistant United States attorney, asking for information about the case of Charles A. Stoneham, baseball magnate and stock broker, who was acquitted at a trial presided over by Judge Winslow of a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with bucketshop operation.

PRIVATE TRIAL SOUGHT FOR ALLEGED 'FIEND'

A private hearing for A. E. Merritt, alleged attacker of a number of women on the north side section during the past month, will be sought today by Police Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant and Officer J. H. Lindsay, captors of the suspect, who will confer with Solicitor General John A. Boykin, the officers said Wednesday.

Solicitor General Boykin announced that Merritt's case would be presented to the grand jury Friday.

Lieutenant Sturdivant explained that the request for a private trial in case of indictment for Merritt would be made in order not to unduly embarrass women victims of the series of attacks, who will be called to testify. The officers said scores of curiosity seekers had come to police station in an effort to see Merritt, who is being held incommunicado.

Rescue Steamer Pulls 25 Seamen Safely Off Rocks

Seattle, Wash., February 13.—(AP)—Pulled through the pounding surf that was starting to break up their ship on a small Aleutian island, the crew of 25 was taken from the Japanese freighter Meiyu Maru late today by the steamer Illinois.

Only meagre details of the scene at the wreck were available. Meanwhile, Captain Richard J. Hoar, of the freighter Montauk, had taken 23 members of the crew of the abandoned steamer Alloway to Dutch Harbor after a heroic rescue yesterday.

The crew of the Alloway, with the exception of one man, an oiler named Polier, who refused to leave his ship, escaped in lifeboats and were picked up by Captain Hoar when the tow line with which the Montauk was bringing the Alloway to safety at Dutch Harbor, snapped as the two ships were maneuvering the entrance to Unimak Pass. Today the radio station at Dutch Harbor was advised the Alloway was still holding her anchors, but her stern was swinging perilously close to the rocks and the ship was expected to go ashore at any moment.

turned his $80,000 home and a large tract for $15,000, and his personal property for $500, an amount which would not furnish a corner of his den, Mr. Johnson said.

True Valuation Required.

The law requires that property shall be returned at its true value, Mr. Johnson pointed out. By wealthy men returning property at extremely small valuation, the poorer classes have to carry the burden of taxation, he said. He told of one man who has never returned property for taxation because "he gets by cheaper on the N. O. D. book." He urged that completion of the landlot survey would aid in eliminating large numbers of people from the N. O. D. book, because an accurate check of property holders would be available, if the survey is coupled with a property transfer system and a building permit system.

Prior to the tax session the board of commissioners held an executive meeting to discuss the matter of county finances in regard to construction work, a policy of retrenchment being necessary because of the low condition of the county's finances.

Those present at the tax session included, in addition to Commissioners Paul S. Etheridge, chairman; George M. Hone, Walter B. Stewart, Dr. W. L. Gilbert and Walter B. Hendrix, the following tax officials: Mr. Johnson, tax collector; W. S. Richardson, tax collector; Frank F. Smith, tax investigator; H. W. Gilbert, Joe H. Elliott and W. O. Peavy, of the board of tax equalizers; F. B. McCullum, deputy tax collector, and Gene Roberts, who is in charge of the property survey.

"She killed them because she didn't like me to visit her," was the only motive for the alleged slayings the younger woman gave.

Husbands Held.

Walk Lewis, Eau Claire junk dealer, husband of Mrs. Lewis, and Herbert Gorham, Dowagiac iron worker, husband of Mrs. Gorham, were held but denied knowledge of the alleged slayings.

Formal charges against the two women probably will be withheld, authorities said tonight, pending a mental examination.

COAST GUARD EXAMS WILL BE HELD HERE

Treasury Department Says That Competitive Test Is To Take Place June 26-28.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
(Special Staff Photographer.)

Washington, February 13.—Officials of the treasury department today advised Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, that a competitive examination for the appointment of cadets in the United States coast guard service will be held in Atlanta on June 26-28, next.

The examination, it was explained, will be for the purpose of obtaining young men between the ages of 18 and 22 for a course at the coast guard academy, New London, Conn., upon the satisfactory completion of which they will be eligible for commissions as ensigns in the coast guard service.

Cadets are trained and educated at the coast guard academy and each summer are taken on an extended practice cruise. They receive the same pay and allowances as midshipmen in the navy, $750 per annum and one ration per day, 50 cents.

Upon graduation, after 3 years at the academy, a cadet is eligible to be commissioned an ensign. Commissioned officers in the coast guard rank with officers in the army, navy and marine corps and receive corresponding pay and allowances, grade for grade.

The Georgia senator said that he would be pleased to furnish young men in the state who are interested with full information.

RETIRED MINISTERS

Chicago, February 13.—(AP)—Twenty million dollars, interest from which is devoted to pensioning retired ministers or the widows and orphans of ministers, now is held by the Methodist Episcopal church. It was announced at the annual meeting of the church board of pensions and relief.

Last year $3,280,000 was distributed in pensions, most of it coming from collections in the congregations, the board reported. Of the 8,513 persons on the pension roll half are widows and 880 orphans.

Extreme Weather Fatal to 5 Persons In Alsace District

Strasbourg, France, February 13.—(AP)—Five persons have died in Alsace as a direct outcome of the cold weather which has been gripping France.

The cold wave is reported to have killed or damaged most of the grape vines in the province, whose products have a high reputation in Europe. Truck gardens also suffered enormously.

Temperatures in Alsace ranged as low as 20 degrees below zero. The Rhine is frozen and navigation has been interrupted.

"I light up a Lucky

"The activities of a newspaper demand good physical condition. I find Lucky Strike an immeasurable aid in helping me keep trim and fit. Whenever I am tempted to eat between meals, I light up a Lucky. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the cigarette of joy and benefit."

HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skillfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

ANDERSON ENDED LIFE, CORONER'S JURY FINDS

Concussion of Brain Causes Death After Jump From Bridge.

A coroner's jury Wednesday returned a verdict that E. J. Anderson, 200 Montgomery drive, died Tuesday night of concussion of the brain, caused by his jumping from the bridge spanning the Southern railway tracks at Candler road with suicidal intent.

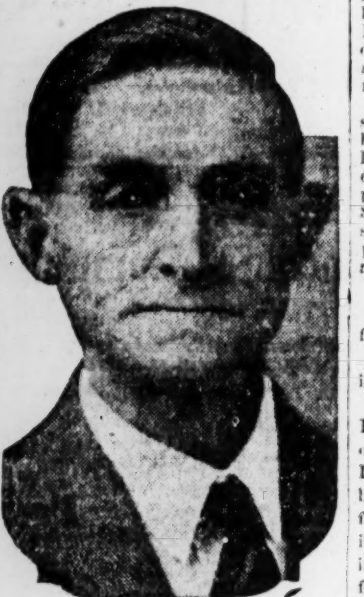

Anderson's body was found on the tracks by a passerby. A note intimating that he intended taking his life was found in a pocket. He had been in ill health for more than a year, and until Christmas had been a patient at a hospital for nervous diseases.

He left his home Tuesday and was not heard from until his body was

HIS RHEUMATISM OVERCOME; GAINS SIXTEEN POUNDS

Retired Farmer Only Weighed 96 Pounds;
"My Faith Is Pinned in Sargon," He Says.

"Since I began taking Sargon my weight has increased from ninety-six pounds to one hundred and twelve—an actual gain of sixteen pounds—but the most wonderful thing of all is the way Sargon overcame my rheumatism."

THOS. B. BELL.

"For twelve years I suffered tortures with pains in my ankles, knees and hips. At times I couldn't walk without crutches. I suffered with stomach trouble, constipation and biliousness. For months I lived almost entirely on soup and bread. I lost energy and my general condition became dreadfully undown. I tried nearly every medicine I heard of, but nothing did me any real good."

"Now, I am like a different man. Every ache and pain is gone. I eat anything I want without a sign of trouble. The rheumatism has disappeared and my strength and energy have returned. A friend of mine who had seen me on the street a few months ago, saw me the other day. I was hustling along looking as good as anybody. He could hardly believe his own eyes and asked me 'What in the world have you done?' and I told him all credit was due to Sargon."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills are different from any other laxative I ever used. They don't purge or grip, but have entirely rid me of constipation and biliousness. From now on my faith is pinned to the Sargon treatment."

The above statement was made by Thos. B. Bell, well-known retired farmer, residing at 415 West California St., Okolona City.

The Sargon representative is at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of the medicine. Sargon Soft Mass Pills may also be obtained at the other Jacobs' stores all over Atlanta. (adv.)

found on the tracks. He evidently had jumped from the bridge above, a distance of some 20 feet, and had landed on his head. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son, funeral directors.

KING GEORGE HAS ANOTHER GOOD DAY AT BORGNOT HOUSE

Borgnot, Sussex, February 13.—(AP) King George was stated to have had another good day at Craigwell house where his condition continued satisfactory.

The weather was bitterly cold just as in the rest of England and there was very little sunshine.

Lord Dawson of Penn has not visited the patient for the past few days but Dr. Frank Howitt and Dr. Robert Woods came down this afternoon and resumed administration of ray therapy which had been suspended recently.

Queen Mary remained in Craigwell house all day, but hoped to pay a visit to London next week.

the body on which four members of the board of education will sit.

He went further into detail concerning the reference following a question from Councilman James L. Wells, of the eighth ward, as to the amount the schools have asked from the proposed $8,000,000 bond issue. Schools are seeking $5,200,000.

Cost of School.

A series of questions from various members of the committee disclosed that cost of operation and maintenance of the city schools per capita per pupil a year in the Atlanta system is about $60 and that of the county about $48 for the county system figured on a basis of daily attendance. Mr. Sutton held that the average cost of cities of Atlanta's size is $60. Average daily attendance of the entire enrollment of county schools was estimated at 90 per cent and city schools at 94.

Alderman Ashley declared he was "struck dumb" when, as a member of the Fulton county grand jury, he inspected the county schools and compared the cost of modern school buildings of that system with those of Atlanta. He also cited the fact that the Fulton County High school military department checked out without a shortage while the Atlanta schools registered one.

If the $5,000,000 is voted for schools, as asked, he placed in the bond issue, it was estimated that at least $450,000 annually must be added to the drain on the current expenditures of the city. Of that amount $160,000 would be included in the sinking fund, $250,000 interest at 5 per cent and $125,000 additional operating expenses for the new buildings.

Detailed Report.

Detailed report of the proceedings follows:

James Wells, to Mr. Sutton: What is your request from this bond issue?

Mr. Sutton: I asked for $5,200,000. I started to say that we have a board of education, as Mr. Wells has, and I am the executive officer of that board and not the policy-making officer of that board. In other words, if there are any policies as to financing or running the schools, it is perfectly all right and I am glad for them to call on me to ask for recommendation and to give them the benefit of the knowledge that I have. I feel that it will be somewhat presumptuous, in view of the fact that we have a committee of 12 and in view of the further fact that when that committee makes its report, when it is the opinion of my board, it will be a little bit unbecoming in me, and am satisfied that Mr. Wells feels the same way, to make suggestions as to the financial solution of the problem like this before that committee has met and taken action.

Mr. Wells: I agree with you. In other words, Mr. Sutton, you feel you would not want to be committed to anything we would not expect you to commit yourself. What we had in mind—your request out of bond funds an appropriation of $5,000,000—what would that represent?

Mr. Sutton: That would represent the putting of our school system on the basis that I would think it is not up to the best, would be on an average, as far as housing is concerned, with the school systems of cities of 100,000 to 300,000 people in the United States.

Mr. Wells: How long?

Mr. Sutton: On present basis figure up to 1933.

Mr. Wells: This $5,000,000 will take care of permanent improvements through 1933?

Mr. Sutton: I figure it, taking other bond issues as an example, if this was passed this spring, it will be next fall and longer before you take that much money, and it ought to be spent over a period of three years, rather than get through in six or eight months. The question of architects found on the tracks. He evidently had jumped from the bridge above, a distance of some 20 feet, and had landed on his head. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son, funeral directors.

He went further into detail concerning the reference following a question from Councilman James L. Wells, of the eighth ward, as to the amount the schools have asked from the proposed $8,000,000 bond issue. Schools are seeking $5,200,000.

Cost of School.

A series of questions from various members of the committee disclosed that cost of operation and maintenance of the city schools per capita per pupil a year in the Atlanta system is about $60 and that of the county about $48 for the county system figured on a basis of daily attendance. Mr. Sutton held that the average cost of cities of Atlanta's size is $60. Average daily attendance of the entire enrollment of county schools was estimated at 90 per cent and city schools at 94.

Alderman Ashley declared he was "struck dumb" when, as a member of the Fulton county grand jury, he inspected the county schools and compared the cost of modern school buildings of that system with those of Atlanta. He also cited the fact that the Fulton County High school military department checked out without a shortage while the Atlanta schools registered one.

If the $5,000,000 is voted for schools, as asked, he placed in the bond issue, it was estimated that at least $450,000 annually must be added to the drain on the current expenditures of the city. Of that amount $160,000 would be included in the sinking fund, $250,000 interest at 5 per cent and $125,000 additional operating expenses for the new buildings.

Detailed Report.

Detailed report of the proceedings follows:

James Wells, to Mr. Sutton: What is your request from this bond issue?

Mr. Sutton: I asked for $5,200,000. I started to say that we have a board of education, as Mr. Wells has, and I am the executive officer of that board and not the policy-making officer of that board. In other words, if there are any policies as to financing or running the schools, it is perfectly all right and I am glad for them to call on me to ask for recommendation and to give them the benefit of the knowledge that I have. I feel that it will be somewhat presumptuous, in view of the fact that we have a committee of 12 and in view of the further fact that when that committee makes its report, when it is the opinion of my board, it will be a little bit unbecoming in me, and am satisfied that Mr. Wells feels the same way, to make suggestions as to the financial solution of the problem like this before that committee has met and taken action.

Mr. Wells: I agree with you. In other words, Mr. Sutton, you feel you would not want to be committed to anything we would not expect you to commit yourself. What we had in mind—your request out of bond funds an appropriation of $5,000,000—what would that represent?

Mr. Sutton: That would represent the putting of our school system on the basis that I would think it is not up to the best, would be on an average, as far as housing is concerned, with the school systems of cities of 100,000 to 300,000 people in the United States.

Mr. Wells: How long?

Mr. Sutton: On present basis figure up to 1933.

Mr. Wells: This $5,000,000 will take care of permanent improvements through 1933?

Mr. Sutton: I figure it, taking other bond issues as an example, if this was passed this spring, it will be next fall and longer before you take that much money, and it ought to be spent over a period of three years, rather than get through in six or eight months. The question of architects

Members of the special bond committee named by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale to make recommendations concerning a proposed $8,000,000 bond issue for public improvements in Atlanta are shown in the above picture as they prepared to study the school financial problem Wednesday afternoon. From left to right, those shown are: Councilman Nelson Spratt, Fred Wilson, Councilman James L. Wells, W. E. Small, Alderman Claude Ashley, chairman; Tom Elder, Councilman J. W. Rountree, William A. are paying some 12 months.

Mr. Wells—Eleven months.

Mr. Sutton—We are paying ours 12 months. We also furnish textbooks.

Mr. Ashley—We do.

Salary Schedule.

Mr. Sutton: It is included in the cost per pupil. On the average our salary schedule will run 15 or 20 per cent above.

Mr. Wells—I do not know what yours is.

Mr. Sutton—We furnish textbooks. You have also to remember that there were certain factors in cost of installation in kindergarten system that they do not have.

Mr. J. Wells—I do not want the committee or Mr. Sutton to think I am here for the purpose of comparing our school systems. I will be glad to furnish any information I can pertaining to my own school system.

Mr. Wells—Mr. Sutton, let me ask you one thing? This $80 per pupil that you speak of as a possible average for other cities, according to government statistics, do you know whether or not there is included in that any amounts for interest or sinking funds?

Mr. Sutton—Operating cost.

Mr. Wells—This $80, this is operating cost outside of sinking fund?

Average Attendance.

Mr. Sutton—Our average attendance will run about 48,000. Our enrollment for the year, on 25,000 up to the present. It will run about 60,000 or 61,000 during the year.

Mr. Ashley: In making up our financial sheet, we had an awful time. The worst I have had in years. The financial sheet is very misleading; it carries $18,000,000. When we will Instructional Increase.

Mr. Sutton—An average increase per year of $100,000 to $125,000, as far as the instructional end of the service. The operation of course will depend on what we build, and how we build it, but I would say we would have an increase for operation on a situation like that $15,000 to $20,000 per year. Some people do not realize what that means this year. An illustration: Rhodes-Haverty building, 85,000 square feet of space. Out of the last bond issue we built nearly one million square feet of space. When you think of taking care of janitor upkeep and heating, it mounts around anywhere from 10,000,000 cubic feet of surface. The maintenance would be tremendous.

Mr. Wells—In other words, you ask for a $5,000,000 bond issue and after you get these schools equipped, your teacher cost, your educational factor is $125,000 a year.

Mr. Sutton—What I mean by that is this. We arrived at that figure. I am not talking of our automatic increase. I am talking on a basis of 2,000 children per year and $60 per child.

Mr. Wells—At the end of 1933 your increase in your cost of teacher help will be $125,000.

Mr. Sutton: It will be more than that. As year by year goes along 2,000 children and $60 per child, you multiply $60 by 2,000 and $120,000 results.

Mr. Wells—At the end of 1931—$125,000. Five per cent interest on these $5,000,000 bonds is $250,000 a year.

Mr. Ashley—Interest and sinking fund is around $500,000.

Mr. Wells—What is worrying this committee—one factor is where is this $500,000 coming from? You have got to revise your system of taxation, or the educational system will have to take over its own taxation.

Mr. Sutton—That is logical.

Mr. Ashley—I can't see how we can go further. I will tell you why. Last spring I was on the Fulton county grand jury. They sent me out to visit county schools, including high schools. I will tell you how I found them. I found some of the county schools in which the housing conditions were bad. The new building they had erected was an honor to any municipality. I was struck almost dumb when I found the cost of these buildings in comparison with the cost of the city school buildings. I found the school as far as the educational end ran right jam-up. I use this expression in speaking of the high school. It was the last word in an educational institution from my viewpoint. I was dumbfounded when I went into that school, and at the time I was there the government was checking its material. The government loan material to the schools and the government was checking and I returned to find how they checked. They checked out to a bayonet. They checked out the Atlanta high school and checked out $120,000 short.

Mr. Sutton—$4,000 short.

Discussion Asked.

Mr. Ashley—For this reason I would like to have an informal discussion.

Mr. Wells—What is your cost per pupil now?

Mr. Sutton—Our cost per pupil would average about $60 taking your figure on average daily attendance—kindergarten, too.

Mr. Wells—How does that average compare with cities like Indianapolis, St. Paul, etc.

Mr. Sutton—$96 is average in cities like Atlanta.

Mr. Ashley, addressing Jere Wells—What is your average cost?

Mr. J. Wells: In 1928 it was $48, taking schools as a whole, considering colored, etc.

Mr. Ashley—How does your attendance run?

Average Attendance.

Mr. J. Wells—Average daily attendance runs between 88 and 92 per cent, but it will be approximately 90 per cent.

Mr. Sutton—We run about 94 per cent.

Mr. Ashley to Mr. J. Wells—Have you your enrollments in mind?

Mr. J. Wells—I received a list of questions a few days ago sent to me, and I shall answer some of them here. I might know of some of them. I do not recall whether that was one or not. My cost per pupil is $48.04 on daily attendance and on enrollment $52.47.

Drys, Wets Dissatisfied With Conditions in U. S., Declares Judge Sibley

Proposes Fact-Finding Commission To Ascertain Sentiment of People of America.

"Very little progress has been made in enforcement of prohibition in the United States in the last three years and dries and wets are dissatisfied with conditions as they now exist," said Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the federal court of the north district of Georgia, in commenting in Atlanta Wednesday upon his speech at the University of Georgia on "Georgia Day" in which he suggested appointment of a fact-finding commission by the government and submission of a questionnaire to the public at the next general election to ascertain the sentiment of the public.

Judge Sibley expressed the opinion that the great trouble with the nation today is the breakdown of religious—deep-seated, practical religion.

Need of Religious Principle.

"In my talk at the university," he said, "I sought to bring home to my hearers what I consider one of the most vital subjects which faces the country today—the lack of religious principle. With the separation of church and state, which we have in the United States, it seems to me that it is the duty of our educational institutions to stress the need of religious principle most emphatically."

The judge pointed out that while the prohibition question is a political one, that temperance and total abstinence are matters for the individual to decide. The enforcement of the prohibition law, however, he declared, was absolutely legal.

"The right of congress to make our laws is, of course, unquestioned," he stated, "but it seems to me that not enough attention has been paid to the question of public sentiment, which plays such a large part in all law enforcement. The support of the people of the country is a necessity for enforcement of any law and for this reason, I think it an excellent idea to determine the feelings of the majority of our citizens on this important question."

Investigation Urged.

"Before this is done, however, I think there should be a thorough investigation by a federal commission to determine the exact status of the prohibition question as it stands today. There should be an exhaustive study made of the results, the cost of enforcement, and the various plans in use in other countries. One report would not be sufficient for such a study and the commission would have to be permanent. Then, with the facts all public, there should be a referendum to determine the sentiments of the majority."

Judge Sibley stated that in his opinion, prohibition had not yet been given a fair trial and that this should be done before any final action was taken on the question. With this in view, one of the questions which he sets forth should be included in the questionnaire to be submitted to the public is "Are you willing to abstain from the use of all alcoholic beverages for two years in order to give prohibition a fair trial?"

Opposition in Higher Strata.

"One of the most surprising things about this whole situation is the fact that opposition to the prohibition laws is coming largely from the class of people who would be expected to favor law enforcement, that is, the higher strata of society," Judge Sibley said.

Speaking of the "local option" of the present day, he said that in different parts of the country the question has resolved itself into whether or not the people in that section want the laws enforced. "In Georgia, anyway," he said, "judging from the fate of those who run for office on a wet ticket, there is little doubt as to the wishes of the majority."

He added, however, that it appeared that in many instances throughout the country people voted dry but did not, conduct themselves accordingly. "I believe firmly in a man practicing what he preaches," he said.

NEW TRIAL MOTION FOR GEORGE HARSH
SET FOR SATURDAY

Hearing on the new trial motion by George Harsh, who is under sentence to die on March 15 for the slaying of Willard Smith, Wednesday was set by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, for Saturday. Harsh was found guilty on a murder charge by a jury in Judge Thom's court on January 19, and his attorneys, Branch & Howard and Colquitt & Conyers filed the motion for a new trial several days ago.

Announcement was made Wednesday by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin that "Dick" Gallagher's retrial has been set for March 5. Gallagher was given a mistrial two weeks ago when tried on the Smith murder charge as a joint defendant with Harsh. The jury divided six for life imprisonment and six for acquittal after nearly 24 hours deliberation.

PUCCINI OPERA OPENS 1929 ATLANTA SEASON

Atlanta Presentation Will Be Third in United States.

The opening opera of Atlanta's 1929 opera season to be offered by the Metropolitan Opera company here the week of April 22 is Puccini's "La Rondine" and the interesting fact develops that the Atlanta presentation will be the third presentation of this opera in the United States. The first time it was sung in this country was March 10, 1928, at the Metropolitan opera house in New York. The second time was in Philadelphia and Atlanta will be the third city to have an opportunity of enjoying this wonderful composition.

"La Rondine" possesses the merit of being light in nature and is really a comedy. It has no big tragic moments and is full of fun throughout. It was composed by Puccini in 1917 and had its first presentation in Monaco during the world war. Puccini's music is of a distinctive kind, graceful and tuneful. Among his operas that have been sung in Atlanta are "Princess Turandot," sung last year; "Madame Butterfly," sung year before last; "Tosca" and "Manon Lescaut."

Lucresia Bori, one of the most popular sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera company, will sing the role of Magda. The leading tenor will be Beniamino Gigli, who will sing "Ruggero." Edith Fleischer will sing "Lisette" while Armand Tokatyan, Armenian tenor, will appear in the role of Prunier.

It is expected that "La Rondine" will attract one of the largest crowds of the season as it is an opera that has an appeal for all classes of music lovers. The early sale tickets indicate that "La Rondine" is to be one of the big winners as nearly every request for reservations has included this opera in the list.

HOUSE TRIES TO SHOW JOHNSTON ACT ILLEGAL

Oklahoma City, Okla., February 13. (AP)—The impeachment trial of Governor Henry S. Johnston dragged today through prosaic technical testimony intended to show that he acted illegally in issuing deficiency certificates, involved in seven of the eleven charges voted against him by the house of representatives.

The house board of managers, prosecuting the suspended governor, centered its fire on a certificate issued to the Oklahoma National Bank for an advance attorney fee to Kirby Fitzpatrick, who had worked actively for Johnston in the primary and general elections campaign of 1926, when Johnston was elected.

Fitzpatrick was retained as a special attorney in the state banking department and was given a fee of $5,000 before he performed any services. Edwin Dabney, attorney general, told the senate court of impeachment today that if he had been asked by the governor he would have advised that the advance fee was illegal. Dabney admitted his office has submitted the governor an opinion that a deficiency certificate could be issued for the payment of Fitzpatrick's services if an emergency existed.

Dabney said his office had not been asked to do the work for which Fitzpatrick was retained, collection of surety bonds on insolvent state banks. The attorney general testified that the governor had not asked his advice as to the legality of the issuance of six other deficiency certificates.

E. P. Hill, veteran member of the legislature, who was defeated for reelection in Pittsburgh county last year because of his opposition to Johnston's administration, charged in testimony before the senate court that the governor had broken faith with the legislature in employing Fitzpatrick. O. B. Mothershead, former bank commissioner, told the senate court that there was no necessity for another attorney in the banking department when Fitzpatrick was employed, and that the banking board engaged him because of the governor's insistence. Mothershead was an appointee of M. E. Trapp, who preceded Johnston as governor, and was removed early in Johnston's administration in favor of Graves Shull, the present commissioner.

Governor Pleads Amended Code To Stop Ridicule

Lansing, Mich., February 13.—(AP) A plea to save Michigan's criminal code from ridicule by amending the habitual criminal act which makes fourth liquor law violators subject to life imprisonment was made today by Governor Fred W. Green.

"The fact that the code makes fourth liquor law violators and fourth violators of many other so-called minor crimes subject to life imprisonment is making it an object of ridicule," the governor said. "Enough ridicule might tear down the entire structure."

The governor's plea was made in answer to a statement by the Rev. R. N. Holsapple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, in which he declared the governor was "politically short sighted" in his zeal for amending the liquor provision of the state code.

"There is neither political short sightedness, political expediency nor anything else political involved," the governor said. "The habitual criminal act should be amended to save the criminal code, which is a powerful crime prevention weapon."

Texas Assembly May Be Picketed In Seating Fight

Austin, Texas, February 13.—(AP) The house of representatives tonight refused to budge from its previous position in voting to seat W. R. Montgomery, of Hidalgo county as a member and a crowd of variously estimated at from 200 to 500 citizens of that county who came here to "picket" the legislature and ask that it reopen the case, was undecided on its next course of action.

The demonstrators are friends of E. M. Smith, of Edinburg, who had contested Montgomery's seat. They sat in the gallery during the proceedings and listened to nearly four hours of debates upon parliamentary procedure, at times applauding ardently remarks of some friendly legislator on the floor.

At one time Speaker W. S. Barron warned the spectators that "if there is any further demonstration the galleries will have to be cleared."

The protest was turned down on a point of order by Senator Keller, of Dallas, that the subject dealt with matters heretofore considered by the legislature and that a motion to reconsider and table had been carried, precluding its being reopened. The vote on the point of order was 74 to 55.

Although he was fortified by two parliamentarians, an extra one having been imported into the house especially for the occasion, Speaker Barron submitted each of the many points of order to the house membership for disposal.

30th Birthday Of Coldest Day Fair and Warm

On the thirtieth anniversary of the coldest day in Atlanta's history, February 13, 1899, when the mercury fell all control and dropped to a little more than eight degrees below zero, Old Sol was on active duty. Beginning his work Wednesday when the official thermometer showed one degree below the freezing point, he caused the mercury to ascend in a fairly rapid fashion until it had reached a maximum figure of 56 degrees. It was actually springlike after the chill of early morning had worn off and the official forecast for today calls for more of the same, that is, more sunshine and a slight rise in temperature.

Those of Atlanta's population who had any complaints to offer at the 31-degree minimum of Wednesday morning, if they had but known it, might have been ferreted out by that record minimums don't run in 30-year cycles, for at 8 o'clock in the morning on that day so well remembered by "old timers" the mercury had slumped to eight and one-half degrees below zero.

Fortunately, nothing approximating these conditions is anticipated for the near future. The winter season so far, Mr. von Herrmann, local bureau chief, stated Wednesday, has been extremely moderate and he thinks that it will remain so. The temperature range today is expected to be from 36 up to a maximum of approximately 60 degrees.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD HAS GANG; CARRIES GUN; IN 150 "JOBS"

Chicago, Ill., February 13.—(AP) Twelve-year-old Joe Dowling, who carries a gun and has a gang, told police today he had taken part in 150 burglaries since the time he was 9 years old.

When arrested last night as he was offering a $150 diamond ring for sale today he had taken part in 150 burglaries since the time he was 9 years old. He was asked about the pistol.

"A guy's gotta have a gun," said the boy, who is small for his years. "Suppose the dicks caught me, and I had a chance to shoot it out with them? I've had lots of guns. Some I got in flats. One time me and a kid named Coughlin—he's doing a stretch now—stole a car and drove to Gary, Ind., and bought two shot-guns from a guy. On the way back Coughlin took a shot at a farmer in a field and he knocked his hat off."

Police said they had verified several of the burglaries to which the boy confessed.

BOWDEN OFFERS PLAN TO RAISE ROAD FUNDS

Waycross, Ga., February 13.—(Special.)—Honorable J. E. T. Bowden, representative from Ware county, announced today that he will introduce for the consideration of the state legislature a bill to provide for the construction of a state highway system by means of a bond issue.

On the contrary, says Mr. Bowden, the purpose of his bill is to provide the state highway department with ample funds until the people can express themselves in regard to the bond issue. The vote cannot be held until November, 1930, and if the bonds pass no money is available from them before 1931.

In the meantime the state highway department will need more funds for permanent paving and it is the purpose of the Bowden bill to provide these funds.

Under the terms of Mr. Bowden's bill the state would anticipate $20,000,000 of its revenue. This would be repayable at the rate of $1,000,000 a year, or within five years. The interest would not be over 5 per cent, or $1,000,000 a year.

This would give to the state highway department available in July of this year, an additional $19,000,000 to be used in the permanent paving of the trunk highways that run clear across the state.

It is estimated that the revenue from the gasoline tax and the tag sales is $10,000,000 a year and will increase. Deducting from this amount the $4,000,000 a year to be repaid on the anticipated revenues, the estimated annual interest, and the estimated $2-400,000 for the maintenance and operation of the highway department, will give the department each of the other four years a surplus of $5,000,000 for permanent paving.

It is believed this will pave all the trunk highways, and if this is followed up by the passage of a state highway bond issue, there will be sufficient funds to pave every mile of the state highway system.

Mr. Bowden emphasizes that the purpose of his bill is to make funds available immediately so as to keep permanent construction under way until the people decide on the bond issue. A second purpose is to enable the state to match federal aid so that Georgia will not lose its share of the federal appropriations, as was feared by Governor L. C. Hardman.

There is considerable discussion as to whether or not Mr. Bowden's plan is legal, but this will be settled before the legislature meets. It is to be noted that the plan pays for itself out of the tag sales and the gasoline tax.

James L. Williams (center), news editor of the Associated Press Washington bureau, will write the principal news story of Herbert Hoover's inaugural for The Constitution. Kirke L. Simpson (left) and Walter Chamblin (right) are included in the large staff which will cover the event March 4.

Nearly two score Associated Press staff writers will bring the news of every major and minor happening in the stirring pageantry of President-elect Hoover's inauguration March 4 to readers of The Constitution.

The Washington bureau of the Associated Press has mapped out the coverage of this great news event on a scale never before attempted. The largest Associated Press staff ever assembled for such an occasion will be so deployed that no feature of the historic event will go unrecorded. Meanwhile, the Associated Press Feature Service daily is covering all advance developments in special illustrated features.

lock, of Waycross, presided in the place of Judge J. H. Thomas, of Jessup, who disqualified himself. Since then the term of Judge Blalock has expired. The delay in the setting of the date for a new trial has been occasioned by the illness of the court stenographer. It is expected that the motion for a new trial will be heard in Jessup the last of next week.

The Constitution on March 4 will present quickly, tersely, colorfully every phase of the momentous climax to Herbert Hoover's career.

A great array of Associated Press staff writers—men and women—will write of the inauguration. Those whose work will appear in this paper will include:

James L. Williams, news editor of the Washington bureau, who has followed the course of great national events for years.

Walter Chamblin, who took the long trail with the "Happy Warrior" and carried the commandment of Alfred E. Smith for his fair and interesting reports of the campaign.

W. B. Ragsdale, who trekked the country over with Hoover.

Kirke L. Simpson, the "Washington Bystander," whose inspired pen has written of men and affairs in Washington for two decades.

Clifton Coffin, who has "covered" Hoover since the first days of the latter's advent into the capital.

Francis M. Stephenson, who wrote so interestingly of the Curtis campaign.

Edward J. Duffy, a member of the Associated Press national convention staff.

Marguerite Young, who will see the inauguration through the eyes of a woman reporter.

Sue McNamara, whose colorful accounts of Washington women and the capital's feminine life, have won wide attention.

Augmenting the work of these men and women will be the huge Associated Press Washington staff. The Associated Press writer will be in constant touch with President Coolidge, another with Mrs. Coolidge, another with President-elect Hoover, still another with Mrs. Hoover.

How will they act on this great day? The Constitution will tell you. Associated Press men and women will be here, there, everywhere. Special telephones will carry numerous reports of these staff writers into Associated Press Washington headquarters and there they will be translated into graphic English and carried to the far corners of the world.

The Associated Press will bring the inauguration to you in story and in picture. Watch The Constitution to get the complete account of this historic event.

Gas Forces Woman to Sleep in Chair

"Nights I had to sit up in a chair. I had stomach gas so bad. I took Adlerika and nothing I eat hurts me now. I sleep fine."—Mrs. Glenn Butler.

The simple mixture of glycerin, buckhorn bark, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DO-RIE action. It acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that poisoned the system for months. It clears GAS and sourness from the stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And, in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis and rheumatism.

ports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated." It will surprise you the great amount of poisons Adlerika brings out—you would never believe they were in your system. In chronic constipation, GAS, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Send for FREE check-board. ADLERIKA, Dept. PRISON DOCTOR ORDERS CARNES TO TAKE REST

Milledgeville, Ga., February 13.—(Special.)—Clinton S. Carnes, erstwhile Southern Baptist home mission board treasurer, who arrived at the state prison here yesterday to begin a sentence of five to seven years for embezzling funds of the board, was ordered given a complete rest of several days by Dr. John Mobley, prison physician, who examined the prisoner this morning. Carnes will be assigned to duty later, Judge B. H. Dunaway, superintendent of the prison, said after he received the doctor's report.

The prisoner was not confined in the prison hospital ward but will have his quarters in the general quarters, which is termed by the prisoners as the "bull pen."

Judge Dunaway later said that he had received no word from the prison commission concerning Carnes and could not say how long he would remain at the prison or whether he was later to be transferred to the chain-gang. The prison superintendent said that if the former Baptist official was to remain at the prison he would be assigned to some work at the prison.

When Carnes was passing through the hallway at the prison on his way to a sleeping quarters last night, Captain J. B. Burke, warden of the men's camp, happened to be standing nearby and Carnes went up to the warden with outstretched hand saying: "I don't believe I have met you, my name is Carnes and I am here to stay a while." Captain Burke told the prisoner he was the warden to look after Carnes. The prisoner then informed the warden that he was a willing worker and he would do any work they required of him. "It is my intention to be a model prisoner," Carnes added, "and if there is anything I can do to help you at any time call on me."

Prison officials refused to permit newspapermen to see the prisoner. Carnes is sentenced to serve from five to seven years and he will not be permitted to ask for a pardon during that time.

CITIES ALLOWED TO AID IN PAYING STATE HIGHWAYS

State highways running through municipalities can be paved with aid of money furnished by municipalities according to a decision handed down Wednesday by the supreme court in a case appealed from Macon county. It was held that an act of the legislature approved in 1925 made such provision legal notwithstanding charter provisions to the contrary. It was held that the passage of this measure nullified the charters which prevented municipalities from aiding in paying streets which are parts of the state highway system. The case was carried to the supreme court when 41 citizens of Montezuma sought to prevent the county officials from paving a part of Dooly street in that city.

YOUTH IS GIVEN 12 MONTHS' TERM ON GUILTY PLEA

John Fincher, 19, received a net 12 months' changing sentence Wednesday when he pleaded guilty in Judge Virlyn B. Moore's division of Fulton superior court to charges of larceny after trust, destroying records and burglary. Fincher was charged with larceny after trust of a small amount of money from the Atlanta Willowware company, of which he was formerly an employee, and with destroying some records of the company, as well as entering the place after business hours to take a small amount of cash.

6 TO 7 YEARS GIVEN FORMER BANK CASHIER

P. W. Hancock Found Guilty of Embezzlement of $53,488.98.

Sentence of from six to seven years was given P. W. Hancock, former cashier of the Lakewood bank, Wednesday by Judge Virlyn B. Moore in Fulton superior court on a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with embezzlement of $53,488.98.

Paul S. Etheridge, president of the bank, pointed out to the court that the shortage was more than the capital stock of the bank, and that many citizens in the Lakewood section were ruined by the bank's closing.

When Judge Moore asked the defendant if he had anything to say, Hancock shook his head. It was pointed out in Hancock's behalf that he gave the first intimation of the shortage and surrendered to the authorities. The shortage was reported to the board of directors when Hancock handed the board a statement in which he was said to have confessed taking the money to satisfy the demands of an alleged blackmailer who had threatened him and his family.

High's Reports Heavy Increase In 'Swallow Sale'

Sixty per cent increase in sales over the first day's business in last year's "swallow sale" featured the biggest annual selling event of the J. M. High company this year. It was announced Wednesday by A. R. Dorsen, general manager of the Whitehall street department store.

Continuation of this remarkable sales exploit is expected throughout the sale. Mr. Dorsen added, by reason of the fact that new items are being offered at sensational prices daily and goods bought specially for the event are constantly arriving and being included in the sale.

Today is the regular High "wise shoppers' day," when the emblem of the sale is customarily used; and on this occasion the owl and the swallow will be featured equally, indicating wisdom in selection of spring merchandise at this time.

The "swallow sale," which opened Monday to continue for two weeks, is a store-wide event. Constant influx of new items has been so arranged that persons participating in the sale at all times will not be limited to selections in "picked over" goods.

"I think we can quite truthfully say this is one of High's most notable sales," Mr. Dorsen said Wednesday, "and the reason is primarily that we are able to offer better merchandise at better prices, than we have been able to afford at any other recent sale. Every shopper who has visited our store during the sale will realize the correctness of the statement. I do not know when goods of such uniform high quality has been made accessible to Atlanta buyers at our prices. "Special salespeople are in the store during this week and next week to aid shoppers in every way possible, and to avoid unnecessary delays. We believe the public will find High's 1929 'follow the swallow' sale as gratifying as members of the firm consider it."

Also, many people are run down after flu, so just now it is more important than ever to treat every cold promptly before complications can set in.

Quick Direct Treatment

At the first sign of a cold, melt some Vicks in a bowl of hot water and inhale its healing vapors. Also place some up each nostril and snuff well back. This quickly opens the air passages.

At bedtime, rub Vicks vigorously over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel. Most colds yield overnight to Vicks two-fold action.

Acts 2 Ways at Once

(1) Its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and soreness, and thus helping the vapors to break up the congestion.

Mothers especially appreciate this simple external treatment because it cannot upset children's delicate stomach, as too much dosing is so apt to do.

Rules Board May Declare Fumble Dead

Much Debate Foreseen Before Action, However; Coaches Are at Odds.

Alexander Starts East Today

Coach Alexander, head coach at Georgia Tech, is leaving this afternoon at 4 o'clock for Absecon, N. J., where the football rules committee will go into a secret session to determine just what changes will be made in the rules for the coming grid season.

Alex is a member of the coaches' advisory committee, along with Pop Warner and Knute Rockne.

The board met in a "secret practice" in a New York hotel some two months ago, and at that time the only change considered was that regarding the fumble. Coach Alex says he is opposed to declaring fumbles dead at point of recovery.

BY ALAN J. GOULD.
Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, February 13.—(AP)—The chances seem to be that the national football rules committee will decide this week to make all fumbled balls dead at the point of recovery, if recovered by the opposing team.

On this salient point, at least, the committee will hear strong recommendations from the coaches when it meets in secret session at Absecon, N. J., this Saturday and Sunday. The advisory committee of coaches, including Knute Rockne, will be there to argue for this sweeping change in the rules.

The rules committee, as a matter of fact, considered making this change a year ago to affect all fumbles. Such a rule applies now to the recovery of fumbled punts or backward passes, but the committee has sought more widespread opinion before considering more sweeping action.

The argument has been put forth that to rate dead a recovered fumble from scrimmage or in the open field would rob the game of many spectacular features. It would have prevented, for instance, the famous run in the wrong direction of Roy Riegels, at Tusculum. Had it been in force years ago the name of Sam White would not ring down through Princeton football annals such as it does because of his twin feat of beating Yale and Harvard in 1911 on runs of 60 and 95 yards for recovered fumbles.

But the answer of Rockne and other coaches to this is that the game already is spectacular enough, through the development of more open play, and that it would be even more so with the attacking team not expected to suffer greater penalty than losing the ball on a fumble.

North Carolina Wins Over Wolfpack, 35-34

Raleigh, N. C., February 13.—(AP)—In a basketball game which saw the lead change numerous times after the half had ended at 15-all, North Carolina university came from behind to defeat North Carolina State college Wolfpack tonight, 35 to 34.

Henry Satterfield, midair Tarheel forward, looper in the 34th and 34th points, for the visitors and George Cathey, Sub Tiny Harper, Carolina center, who had come out of action on fouls, caged the 35th and deciding point from the foul line.

Frank Goodwin, State center, shot 19 points to lead the individual scoring.

Bridgewater College Defeats Guilford, 34-28

Bridgewater, Va., February 13.—(AP)—Bridgewater college's basketball team annexed its fourth victory of the season here tonight, defeating Guilford college, 34 to 28, in a game hotly contested throughout.

Guilford jumped into a two-point lead with the whistle but Bridgewater staged a drive midway of the first half to overcome Guilford's lead by a narrow margin. Shortly before the half ended Guilford knotted the ball at 28-all. Bridgewater's floor goal just as the half ended gave the Virginia leads a lead, 28-18, at half time.

Bridgewater held the lead, never by a great margin, throughout the second half to close with the final margin of 6 points.

Seppala Takes Third Dog Racing Triumph

Laconia, N. H., February 13.—(AP)—The wonderfully trained Siberian husky of Leonora Seppala, owner of Alaska, won that veteran musher his third consecutive New England sled dog racing championship here today in a contest that was a repetition of the two previous races.

Seppala's dogs again defeated the valiant efforts of Emil St. Golar, a youth from Le Pas, Manitoba, who is recognized as the world's greatest dog racer. St. Golar struggled desperately to win for three days with a string of wolfhounds which did not possess one-tenth of the speed and stamina of his rival's Siberians and despite this, Seppala beat him by a scant 12 minutes and 17 seconds in a 125-mile race which lasted for three days.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonard and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Jacobs Drug Stores and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for cure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today.—(adv.)

BY DICK HAWKINS

"Let Well Enough Alone!"

FOR THOSE FANS who live and breathe from one fall to the next only because each fall brings football, this week-end has a most important connection. The national collegiate football rules committee meets in New York.

Coach W. A. Alexander sits with that committee, though he is not a member of the body itself. He and Knute Rockne and Pop Warner are the three coaches named to sit with the committee in an advisory capacity and Coach Alex is quite plain about his idea as to what should be done. Not knowing what matters will be brought before the committee, he does not care to make any comment on what stand he will take if any move is made to change rules.

BUT HE DOES make a statement: "If I had my way, the rules would be left entirely alone for at least a period of three years. Give us time to learn the ones we have before we change them," he continued. This is entirely like Coach Alex. He dislikes anything that is not direct and to the point. Football now is cursed with too many intricate rules and, as he said today, "It's a pretty good game just as it is."

One rule change that Alex may have to advise upon and which he will express no opinion about at the present time is the proposal to make a fumbled ball dead at the point of fumbling. That is a matter rich in debate. It is debatable from three angles—two on the field and one in the stands.

THERE ARE ARGUMENTS aplenty on all three sides, but the side that interests us most just at present is the one in the grandstand where we take our place along with the other thousands. From our angle, the rule should not be changed. Spectators pay their money to get a thrill. At least 90 per cent of the fans know little of inside football. They pay for a thrill and the fumble rule as it now stands offers them plenty anxious and hilarious moments.

From the football angle it might be well to change the rule. There is a growing feeling that in this fast game of football nowadays the penalty on a lost fumble is too severe. There is a feeling that a team should not stand to lose all the benefit of a long drive down the field through one little mistake of an individual. Others will argue that such a rule would take some punch out of the game; that it would mitigate against hard tackling and such.

OTHER RULES will be advocated and opposed at that meeting, but it is a veritable cinch that a large majority of the people in this country who act as spectators every fall agree with Coach William A. Alexander in his hope that the rules will be left entirely alone for a while. Most of them will also agree with Coach Alex that "It's a pretty good game just as it is."

Max Schmeling Billiards Crown Quits Manager Won by Shaefer

New York, February 13.—(United News)—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight sensation, today declared he would prefer hanging up his gloves for 18 months than to fight under the direction of Max Bailew, German newspaperman, who accompanied him to this country as his manager.

The contract Bailew holds with the dark-haired title contender will expire at the end of 18 months and Schmeling's lengthy statement, issued today, is considered an ultimatum.

Helen Hicks Is Victor In Match at Miami

Miami, Fla., February 13.—(AP)—Decisive defeat of her opponent today brought Miss Helen Hicks, 18-year-old Salisbury, Long Island, golf star, another step toward her goal of top honors in the annual Miami women's golf tournament. She went into the semi-finals with her victory today.

Miss Hicks, medalist in the play at the Miami Country club, defeated Mrs. William Ferguson, Chicago, 7 and 6, for her victory in the semi-finals. Other results in the championship flight included a victory by Mrs. Joseph Rodolsky, Buffalo, over Mrs. Forster Fowler, Atlanta, who won a 1 up score. Mrs. John Arends, Chicago, defeated Miss Lucille Beck, Pittsburgh, 4-3, and Mrs. Jo Roberts, Philadelphia, won 1 up from Mrs. Ed Brophy, Miami.

V. M. I. Rallies To Win From Davidson, 38-37

Lexington, Va., February 13.—(AP)—Fighting an uphill battle from the opening whistle, Virginia Military institute's basketball team, here tonight, overcame a commanding lead held by Davidson college and crashed through to a 38-37 victory in the last two minutes of play.

At Hawkins, substitute guard, and V. M. I. football captain-elect, inspired the second half rally that resulted in the one-point margin of victory by the Cadets.

Weber Takes Match In Florida Tourney

St. Augustine, Fla., February 13.—(AP)—Harold Weber, Toledo, Ohio, who captured the medal in the qualifying round yesterday, improved his score today to win the first match from George Dantzer, St. Petersburg, by 5 and 4 in the Kenan cup tournament. Jack Ryerson, Cooperstown favorite, eliminated Walter Palmer, Hartford, Conn., in a battle of long putts and expert chips by a score of 3 and 1.

Atlantian Plays Golf With Glenna Collett

Uniontown, N. C., February 13.—(United News)—Miss Glenna Collett, national women's golf champion, of Providence, R. I., was out on the links today for the first time since she was forced to withdraw from the mid-south open tournament two weeks ago on account of illness.

In a friendly foursome Miss Collett demonstrated that her layoff did not greatly affect her shot making ability by returning a card of 84. She played with J. F. Knight, of Akron, Ohio; Edward Ware, of Philadelphia, both of whom had 79s; and C. A. Chandler, of Atlanta, who required an 86.

Rickard Sees Dempsey Lose Title in Rain Here Tonight

Promoter Says Public Refused To Accept Tunney as Real Champion.

This is the only autobiography of Tex Rickard. It was prepared exclusively for The Associated Press. Following is the thirty-third installment of the autobiography which appears in the daily chapters.

BY TEX RICKARD.
(Copyright, 1929, by The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

While the Dempsey-Firpo fight gave me the greatest thrill of my career and while it drew, to be exact, $1,188,002.80, I later was able to promote other bouts greater in both attendance and receipts.

I always heard that Jack Dempsey was the greatest drawing card this world ever saw. One proof is that I had had five fights since he was forced to run over a million dollars, and in each of them Dempsey was a co-star.

Three Years Elapse.

The Dempsey-Firpo fight was in September, 1925, and it was three years before I was able to put Jack into the ring again. Firpo went back to the Argentine after the affair in New York and returning to the United States was beaten by Harry Wills in September, 1928.

If Firpo had not been worried by outside matters which affected both his training and his spirit, that might have been a great fight. As matters turned out, Firpo's disappointing showing removed him as a contender.

From my standpoint Harry Wills was not a good opponent for Dempsey for several reasons. I had never forgotten my experience with the John-John fight. I had seen Firpo's boxing game which I had so labored to build up. There was a chance such a bout might kill it. But I had to find an opponent for Dempsey.

Gene Tunney had been coming along steadily. He had beaten Harry Greb conclusively, won from Johnny Kisko, and had knocked out Tom Gilson, Jack Herman and Bartley Madden. Moreover, he was the type to make a good fight with Dempsey. I believed he was the logical contender, and signed him.

The next thing was to sign Jack. This wasn't so easy. Dempsey believed he would make more money with Wills, and insisted upon him as an opponent. Finally, in April, I had to go to Texas to meet Jack, where I told him my reasons. He was convinced and signed him to a contract.

William Muldoon always favored Tunney, but the other members of the New York boxing commission refused to sanction the match until I had arranged to take it to Chicago. Then George E. Brown, who believed the match belonged to New York, said he felt it his duty to protect the public interest, virtually ordered me back east, and voted with Mr. Muldoon to declare Tunney a proper opponent and Dempsey a boxer in good standing.

More Trouble.

That might have been believed to settle the matter, but the license committee refused Dempsey a license. I was advised that this action would not be upheld by the courts, but there was no time for legal proceedings and I was unwilling to resort to something which might cause lasting bitterness. Philadelphia wanted the match, and I decided to take it there.

Philadelphia certainly did all it could for me. I had been eager to hold the bout in New York to protect the little fellows, the man who had been a steady customer for gallery seats. It tripled his expenses to go to Philadelphia, and also his expenses for money in taxes and patronage, but it turned out to be a great shift for me.

Not since the world began had as many persons sat in an arena and watched two boxers as saw Tunney and Dempsey in that stadium on the Second-Centennial grounds. I never saw a more impressive sight than those rows of people stretching away from the ring until they were almost lost to sight in the dusk.

Seats in Demand

Never was there such a demand for ringside seats. I kept adding rows until I was ashamed to add any more, but the buyers were satisfied. That night drew, again, to be exact, $1,835,733.40, and the government collected $172,339.40 in tax.

Originally I had set the date of the bout for September 11, but I was forced to change my mind and hold it September 23. Tunney changed his training camp from Speculator to Stroudsburg and Dempsey moved from Saratoga to Atlantic City.

Opening Match Won By Ohio Medalist

Ormond Beach, Fla., February 13.—(AP)—Shooting par golf nearly all the day, R. C. Garretson, Ashland, Ohio, today continued the brand of play which made him a medalist in the first round match in the Ormond Beach championships from H. R. Cook, Canoe Brook, N. J., 2 and 1.

Edwin B. Batten, who was in a little trouble in disposing of J. E. Kelley, of Deal, bringing the latter home 3 down, while J. R. Gormley, Ormond Beach, was vanquished by William Collingswood, Binghamton, N. Y., 5 and 4.

Reigh Count Unable To Hold Public Test

Newmarket, England, February 13.—(AP)—The American race horse, Reigh Count, is fit and well in his quarters here, but like hundreds of others is unable to do much training on the famous heath. His trainer said today that the date of Reigh Count's first public appearance would be uncertain until after ground enabled the horse to do the necessary amount of work.

Lanier Poets, B. H. S. Clash Here Tonight

Friday Night G.M.A. Cadets Will Entertain Macon Quint at College Park.

Atlanta basketball followers will have opportunities tonight and tomorrow night to compare Sidney Lanier High, of Macon, 1928 G. I. A. A. champions, with two of the strongest teams entered in the 1929 tournament.

Tonight Sidney Lanier will play Boys' High at Henry Grady court at 8 o'clock. Both teams have been seeded in the draw of the conference prep tournament to be staged here in March under the auspices of The Constitution.

Friday night Georgia Military Academy will be host to the Poets at College Park. This game is also set for 8 o'clock.

The Macon team already boasts a victory over Boys' High this year, having trounced the Purple at Macon last month in a close contest. The following night, however, G. M. A. took the Poets into camp by a one-point margin. Since that time Boys' High has lost one of its stars in Katz, and the Purple has shown steady improvement. A victory by either team over Macon will stamp the winner as one of the favorites in the G. I. A. A. meet.

A Successful Season.

In its season's play Sidney Lanier has been highly successful, splitting two contests with Georgia Military Academy, and winning from both Savannah and Columbus.

The Purple is hoping for a victory over the Poets and is bending every effort to that point. The games on Thursday and Friday nights are expected to draw two of the largest crowds of the year at prep contests.

Only one other game is on tap for this week in prep circles. Decatur High will entertain the Tech High Smithies Friday night at Decatur.

Both Smithies and G. M. A. are preparing for their clash Monday at the Athletic club for the city championship. Tech High has won the city prep title the last four years, but this year is facing a strong threat in G. M. A., which Tuesday trounced Boys' High in the semi-finals of the tournament.

The Cadets will present their first string lineups in the games Friday and Monday, barring injuries in the meantime. G. M. A. has been hindered in two games by injuries and sickness, and only in the tournament was Coach Taliferro able to call on all his players.

DEAF CAGEMEN ARRIVE TODAY; TOURNEY FRIDAY

Practically a new team is being brought here by Coach E. L. Bell, of the Arkansas School for the Deaf, twice champions of the annual Dixie basketball tournament for the deaf, a game meet that will be held here for the third straight time, starting Friday evening at the A. A. C. at 6 o'clock.

Coach Bell returns with only Lonnie Tubbs, Kermit Thomas and Captain Sherman Westfall, around whom, however, another strong aggregation has been built. Jack Page, Roy Stevens, Willis Mote, forwards, and Claude Jerigan, and Merle Goodin, guards, will be ready for action.

Teams Arrive Today.

The Arkansas team, along with the other seven quietests, will be beginning arriving in town Thursday, all being on hand to take part in the opening when four battles are to be staged on Friday night, with Florida and Arkansas opening hostilities.

Following the Florida-Arkansas encounter, Alabama and Georgia, two other upper bracket clans, are matched to meet. For lower bracket games, Tennessee and Mississippi clash in the first one of the evening and North Carolina and South Carolina closing the initial round.

South Carolina's Gamecocks, who have gone to the finals twice only to be pushed out by Arkansas, may find a giant obstacle in the North Carolina Cubs, strong contenders for the title. The Gamecocks will return with another strong aggregation.

Survivors of the first round meet in the semi-finals on Saturday afternoon with the winner of the upper bracket playing at 2:30 and the lower bracket winners at 3:30. Finals are scheduled for 8:30 on Saturday evening.

Riverside Beats Tech Freshmen

Gainesville, Ga., February 13.—(Special)—Riverside Military academy continued its march toward S. I. A. A. basketball honors here tonight by defeating the fighting Georgia Tech freshmen cage team, 37-25. The game was featured by the long shots of the Cadets and the fine path work of the freshmen. Raines, all-American high school center, was held to four goals. Henderson played outstanding ball for the Cadets' lineup.

Babe Ruth Seeks First Golf Title, Wins Match

St. Petersburg, Fla., February 13.—(AP)—Babe Ruth took a step toward his first golf championship here today by defeating Wesley Morck, New York, in a first round match of the Jungle Country club February amateur tournament. The score was 2 and 1.

Ruth is one of the favorites in the field which was narrowed down to 34 today. Tomorrow he meets H. C. Peck, Richmond, Va.

H. I. Replogle, St. Petersburg, the medalist, and Walter Bew, Atlantic City, runner up in the medal play, came through their first matches to become Ruth's strongest contenders.

Selection of Referee At Miami Is Debated

City Makes Plans To Care for Huge Crowd Expected To Invaide City for Bout.

Miami Beach, Fla., February 13.—(AP)—Civic officials and workers of the greater Miami territory went into executive session today to devise ways and means of accommodating the crowd that is expected to overflow hotels and apartments here during the time of the Stribling-Sharkey fight.

As a result housing accommodations for 25,000 extra persons will be sought by the city officials, to care for the crowd that is expected here to swell the group already here and which is claimed to be the largest winter population ever noted for the area.

In a statement issued by the city heads of the various communities, it was asserted that the housing space not now occupied in the sector is sufficient to accommodate 25,000, and the owners of apartment and rooming houses and private homes will be asked to throw open their doors for attendees at the Miami Beach elimination bout, on the night of February 27.

Space for 40,000 persons in Pullman cars is available on Miami tracks, and is expected to end in a conference Friday morning. Today's conference on the subject were Jack Dempsey, promoter of the go, "Pa" Stribling, W. L. A. manager, John Buckley, manager for Sharkey, and the members of the Miami Beach Legion post's athletic commission.

Decision was reached today to discuss names of possibly acceptable referees at the conference Friday, which will be held at 10 o'clock.

Notre Dame To Build 60,000-Seated Stadium

New York, February 13.—(United News)—Notre Dame will erect a stadium seating 60,000 persons next spring to help keep the football team at home, the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university, said at a luncheon given in his honor by the Notre Dame Alumni Club of New York. The stadium will cost $750,000.

Georgia Tech Broad Jumper Seeks Revenge

University Star Will Again Enter Distance Event; Williams Will Compete.

New York, February 13.—(United News)—Twenty athletes who participated in the Olympic games at Amsterdam last summer, of the Paris games in 1924, will compete in the New York A. C. indoor meet at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

Prominent among them are Percy Williams, Canada's Olympic 100 and 200-yard champion; Paavo Nurmi, Finland; Ray Barbutti, Olympic 400-meter champion; Ed Hamm, Georgia Tech Olympic broad jump champion; Jimmy Ball, Canada, runnerup in the 400 meters; and Frank Cuhel, runnerup in the 400 meter hurdles.

Hamm will attempt to avenge himself on Williams, who recently defeated the Georgia star in the Millrose games here. At that time Hamm got away to a ragged start and was left at the post.

Robert Young, Georgia university distance star, will also compete in the games Monday night. Final announcements has not been made as to which events the two southerners will compete. It is likely, however, that Hamm will run in the 90-yard dash and Young in the two-mile hit or miss event. Young failed to place in the Millrose event, which was won by Edwin Wide in easy fashion.

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

The first radio program to go from the Pacific northwest over the Columbia system to the entire nation will be released from the Seattle studios of the American Broadcasting company at 9 o'clock tonight and will present the foremost radio symphonic orchestra of the west, the American Philharmonic, under the direction of Francesco Longo, noted conductor.

During the program controls will be switched to the New York studios of the Columbia Broadcasting system, where Hon. Henry O. Malley, United States commissioner of fisheries, will tell of the government's policy in Alaska to conserve the supply of salmon. Mr. O. Malley was Mr. Hoover's right hand man when the president-elect was secretary of commerce and directed far-reaching policies in line with the conservation of the salmon supply.

In addition to being the first broadcast of a western product, it marks the opening of a great national advertising campaign by the Associated Salmon Packers in the interest of the sale and use of pink salmon. It is fitting that this broadcast should originate in Seattle, the salmon capital of America.

A drama of a little heralded but great industry will be told musically during the broadcast, entitled "A Symphony of the Sea," which will have as a theme song a ballad which paints in tone pictures a surging, restless, rolling sea, with all its mystery and the lure which urges men to seek and wrest a valuable food product from its depths. Following the opening theme, the initial number which the orchestra will play is the dramatic overture to "Freischütz," by Von Weber, the first great symphonic national composer. The program will include as well such popular classics as "Baccara," from Samson and Delilah, "Kamenej Ostrov," and Greig's well known "Sailor Song."

Francesco Longo is a conductor of national fame. For the past eight years he has been identified as a leader in the advancement of musical culture in the west. Mr. Longo is an Italian by birth and an honor graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Naples, where for 12 years he was a protégé of the Italian government. He made his debut in the United States at the age of 20 as assistant conductor to Conquintini at the Manhattan theater in New York. For 15 years he was a prominent figure in eastern musical circles. A concert tour with Luisa Tetrazzini ended in the west and Mr. Longo found a great field in which to carry on his work. Since that time he has held a foremost position in western musical circles.

The American Philharmonic orchestra is composed of 35 outstanding artists of the Pacific slope. They have been leading the leading radio symphonic orchestra of the west since their affiliation with the American Broadcasting company a number of months ago as exclusive radio artists.

Two very familiar and popular numbers have been selected by Adele Vasa, nationally known soprano, for her offering on the Sonora hour over the Columbia system at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Miss Vasa will sing the lilting waltz-song "My Hero," from Franz Lehár's "Chocolate Soldier," and "When You're Away from Me," "The Only Girl," by Victor Herbert.

This season's Broadway hits will be represented by the Picadors' dance orchestra's selection of "Making Whoopee," and "M. Lucky Star," from "Follow Thru," by De Sylva, Brown and Henderson; in addition the Picadors and the Sonora male trio will offer "The Girl in the Park," one of the best known numbers from "Peggy Ann," by Hart & Rodgers. The other numbers scheduled for the Sonora hour are "Love Dreams" and the haunting "Leave Me a Beautiful Memory."

Dupont's "Rosita," played by the Mayfair House salon orchestra, will complete this program, sponsored by the Sonora Radio group.

Another coast-to-coast broadcast by a 50-piece symphonic orchestra under the direction of Erno Rapee is offered as the western feature, presentation over WSB and the N. B. C. system tonight at 8 o'clock.

Elizabeth Lennox, contralto, will again appear as assisting soloist, together with Ohman and Arden, the popular Broadway two-piano team. Miss Lennox will sing the "Spring Song" of Sigmund, and Ohman's opera of that name, and "Oh, Dry Those Tears," by del Riego. Ohman and Arden will present a unique four-hand arrangement of Lincke's "Glow Worm."

Highlights of the symphonic numbers by Erno Rapee and orchestra are the "Ride of the Valkyries" from Wagner's famous opera, and Tchaikovsky's "Andante Cantabile" in special transcription for reed instruments. Radio listeners will also hear for the first time a "Symphony of Roses." Mr. Rapee's own symphonic arrangement of three famous songs about the rose: "Mighty Lak," "Rose," "Foster's Rose in the Bush," and MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose."

A special arrangement of Brahms' "Lullaby" by Joseph S. Pasternak and male quartet will be heard during the regular weekly broadcast of the Hoover Sentinels over WSB and the N. B. C. system tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The Brahms song marks the single classical highlight of a program devoted to the current musical successes of Broadway. Other soloists, Miss Dragone and "Ten for Two" as part of the Vincent Youmans cycle included in the program, and "World Varsity" from the outstanding stage hit, "This Year of Grace."

Arndt's fanciful composition, "Mationettes," and Director Bourdon's arrangement of "Ave Maria," by Gounod, will be distinctive bits in the varied program of classical and semi-classical music to be broadcast by the Maxwell House Concert orchestra this evening through WSB and the N. B. C. system at 8:30 o'clock.

There will be swift change of mood from Massenet's "Last Dream of the Virgin" and Nivins' "Love Song," to the humorous "Dance of the Hunkin' Bee," by Lake. Rosario Bourdon is the director.

Society's Lorgnettes Turned Today Upon Wedding, Valentine Parties

Society's lorgnettes will be focused on weddings and Valentine parties with the marriage of Miss Mary Helen Harvey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emmett Harvey, to John King Otley, Jr., only son of Mr. and Mrs. John King Otley, centering the interest of a fashionable contingent, taking place at a brilliant ceremony this evening at 8 o'clock in the Second Baptist church on Washington street, in which the Harvey family have worshipped ever since coming to Atlanta for residence from the Blue Grass state, Kentucky. Adding a note of sentiment to the occasion will be the reading of the ceremony by Dr. Carter Helm Jones, former pastor of the church, who will journey from New Orleans especially to officiate at the wedding of the lovely bride-elect. A youthful group of bridesmaids and groomsmen will surround the charming couple at the altar to witness the plighting of their troth, the group including Misses Virginia Courts, Florence Eckford, Florence Jenkins, of Columbus; Mary Shewmaker, of Memphis, Tenn.; Mary Dudley Pittman, of Raleigh, N. C.; Sarah Sutherland, the groom-to-be's only sister, Mrs. George W. McCarty, Jr., and the groomsmen will include Dan Conklin, Baxter Maddox, William Harvey and Tom Caldwell, of Miami; while acting ushers will be James D. Robinson, William H. Kiser, Brooks Morgan, Edward Peters, Ernest G. Otley, Dr. Hubert Kennedy, Hunter Bell and Preston Arkwright, Jr., and ring bearer will be Master Richard Dudley Harvey, brother of the bride.

Valentine day is not to be forgotten, as sentiment expressed today goes a long way, many celebrations taking the form of dances and fancy dress balls, the largest events scheduled to be given at the East Lake Country club, with tea-dances at the Biltmore and the Officers' club at Fort McPherson. College belles and beaux will dance the gay hours away in the gymnasium of Oglethorpe university, wearing more appropriate costumes suggestive of the Valentine spirit which rules the social festivities of the day and night. Red hearts shot with golden arrows, and valentines will feature the decorations, myriads of spring flowers, miniature cupid, and colorful costumes will add brilliancy to all the social events planned for St. Valentine's day.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

DANNY'S FEELINGS ARE HURT

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

With those you love be not too cruel. Let tender feelings leave you hurt. —Danny Meadow Mouse.

It was a very happy home that Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had under the big haystack. It was happy, because day after day passed without a single fright. It was like another little world by itself under that big haystack. It was fun to burrow around underneath the hay. It was fun to make little passages in the hay itself. Danny was as fat as ever, for, living was good. Nanny was fat, too. It mattered nothing how Rough Brother North Wind might howl and blow. It mattered nothing how Jack Frost pinched. For under there neither Rough Brother North Wind nor Jack Frost could get.

Nanny had made a very snug, cozy little home. It was nicely hidden, too. If you had peeked under the haystack you wouldn't have discovered it right away. Only she and Danny knew of it. Nanny spent considerable time there—much more than Danny did. But when Danny chose to come home he was always welcome, if Nanny happened to be there, and usually she was there. And then there came the day when Danny's feelings were hurt.

It came about in this way. Danny had been away from home a little longer than usual. When he had left home Nanny had not seemed quite herself. She had been a little bit grumpy. Anyway, this is the way it had seemed to Danny. At first, Danny had thought it was because Nanny didn't want him to leave her. Then he decided that it wasn't this at all. In fact, Nanny acted as if she would be glad to see the last of him. So Danny was himself a little out of sorts when they parted.

But by the time he returned he had forgotten all about it. He had had a good time, and he was in fine spirits. "All I want now is a good nap," said Danny. "I'm glad I've got such a nice home to go to."

He reached the snug little house and poked his nose in at the doorway. Then he pulled it out again in a hurry. Nanny was in a terrible temper. Anyway, she had ordered him out. Not only that, but she had ordered him to stay out. And at the same time she had shown her teeth in a way that Danny didn't like at all. They were sharp teeth. They were the kind of teeth that could hurt. Danny had no desire to have Nanny try them on him. Danny sat down a short distance away to think it over. His feelings were hurt; he didn't understand it at all. He didn't see what the matter was with Nanny. Why should she treat him like this. It's my home just as much as hers. Wasn't I the one to think of the old haystack? Didn't I show her the way to get here? She hasn't any right at all to treat me like this. Perhaps she thought it was some one else. I'll try again.

So Danny ventured to timidly approach the doorway again. He stopped just outside. "Nanny," he called softly, in that squeaky little voice of his. "It is me, Danny. Don't you know your Danny?"

"Go away!" said a sharp voice. "Go away and stay away. There is no place for you here now. And for goodness sake, do stop bothering me! I have troubles enough without having you around."

Danny went off and once more sat down. "Troubles enough," he said over and over to himself. "Troubles enough. Now what does she mean by troubles? She didn't have any troubles when I left her. I should say that I was the one with troubles. Well, I've got a nap, so I'll go somewhere else."

The next story: "Nanny Has Troubles Enough."

OUR CLUB — By Secretary Hawkins

WHAT DOES YOURS SAY, HAWKINS?
MINE SAYS ROSES ARE RED, VIOLETS ARE BLUE—??
SAY, IS THIS SPELLED RIGHT?
THAT'S AN OLD ONE, MINE'S GOT THAT BEAT!

WALKED DOWN TO THE SKINNY GUY. HE WAS FISHIN' AS USUAL, WITH HIS POLE AND LINE. HE JUST SHOOK HIS HEAD ABOUT THE PARTY. I OFFERED TO GIVE HIM SOME MONEY, BUT HE WOULDN'T TAKE IT.

AFTER SUPPER WE WENT TO THE STEAMBOAT, AND ROSALIND WAS WAITING FOR US. SHE SAID HELLO TO EACH ONE AND I WAS LAST TO COME IN. SHE KEPT ON LOOKING OUT THE DOOR. ISN'T HE COMING? SHE ASKED ME.

NONE OF US WANTED TO TELL ROSALIND WHY SKINNY COULDN'T COME. FIRST THING YOU KNOW SHE BUST OUT CRYING. AFTER A WHILE SHE LOOKS AT HER VALENTINES AND THERE WASN'T ANY FROM LINK!

Beauty Fashions

A Dainty Frock for a Little Miss.

6381. For dance or party this model is lovely in tulle or in crepe de chine. Chiffon and tulle are also attractive. As pictured, tulle was chosen, with tiny plaitings of the material for trimming. Printed georgette or chiffon is also suggested. The sleeveless waist is joined to the skirt, which boasts of an uneven hem line, and is gathered over the hips. The bottom may be omitted and the shoulders trimmed with ribbon bows, with long loops and ends.

The pattern for this quaint little dress is cut in four sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size will require 21-8 yards of 32-inch material. To trim as illustrated will require 3-2 yards of plaiting. For a slash of ribbon 3 yards is required.

It may be finished as an afternoon dress, with sleeves. The front of the waist is trimmed with a bolero that is draped at the left shoulder. The fitted skirt portion is lengthened by a flare fold, caught at the left side in soft draped folds.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine at the Change of Life. I would get blue spells and just walk the floor. I was nervous, could not sleep at night, and was not able to do my work. I know if it had not been for your medicine I would have been in bed most of this time and had a bad doctor's bill. If women would only take your medicine they would be better."—Mrs. Anna Weaver, R. F. D. No. 2, Rose Hill, Iowa.

The spacious rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with early spring flowers, palms, ferns and foliage plants. A color motif of yellow and green was effectively carried out in the long entrance hall, the walls being banked with palms and Australian fern trees. Long-stemmed filled with a delicate pastel shade of roses. Vases and smaller bowls of this lovely glass holding similar flowers were arranged at intervals upon the table. Rose-colored tapers burning in the slender candle fixtures adorning the side walls of the dining room reflected a soft glow over the beautifully appointed table.

Claudia Pernet roses and daffodils were artistically arranged in the hall, blending harmoniously with the exquisitely tinted walls. In the alcove at the back of the hall underneath the circular staircase, Miss Mary Baynes, Miss Jean Kendrick and Mrs. Spann Miller served punch from a magnificent silver punch bowl embedded in daffodils, smilax and yellow roses.

The rectangular shaped table was overlaid with a rare antique Brussels lace cover graced in the center by an exquisite Venetian glass bowl

Mrs. Brookes was assisted in receiving by Miss Harvey and her fiancé, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harvey and Mr. and Mrs. John K. Otley, Jr. Mrs. Brookes received her guests wearing a handsome gown of Etruscan gold chiffon. The Phantasy club will entertain at an informal dance at Peachtree and Third.

Mrs. Walker Brookes honors Miss Harvey and Mr. Otley.

Mrs. Walker W. Brookes entertained at an elaborate buffet supper Wednesday evening at her palatial home on Peachtree road following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Mary Harvey and John K. Otley, Jr., whose marriage will be solemnized this evening at a brilliant ceremony at the Second Baptist church, the guests including members of the bridal party, out-of-town guests, who are in the city to attend the wedding and members of the bride and groom-elect's families.

The spacious rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with early spring flowers, palms, ferns and foliage plants. A color motif of yellow and green was effectively carried out in the long entrance hall, the walls being banked with palms and Australian fern trees. Long-stemmed

Claudia Pernet roses and daffodils were artistically arranged in the hall, blending harmoniously with the exquisitely tinted walls. In the alcove at the back of the hall underneath the circular staircase, Miss Mary Baynes, Miss Jean Kendrick and Mrs. Spann Miller served punch from a magnificent silver punch bowl embedded in daffodils, smilax and yellow roses.

An exquisite shade of rose prevailed in the drawing room, lovely camellias in this shade predominating in the decoration. Bouquets were also beautifully carried out in the decoration of the dining room, where super was served.

filled with a delicate pastel shade of roses. Vases and smaller bowls of this lovely glass holding similar flowers were arranged at intervals upon the table. Rose-colored tapers burning in the slender candle fixtures adorning the side walls of the dining room reflected a soft glow over the beautifully appointed table.

Mrs. Brookes was assisted in receiving by Miss Harvey and her fiancé, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harvey and Mr. and Mrs. John K. Otley, Jr. Mrs. Brookes received her guests wearing a handsome gown of Etruscan gold chiffon. Completing the beautiful costume was a gorgeous pointed skirt of antique black Chantilly lace and a shoulder bouquet formed of a single rose tinted camellia and valley lilies.

Miss Harvey's gown was fashioned of yellow tulle in bouffant style. She wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

A Craig Kennedy Mystery Story

BY ARTHUR B. REEVE.

INSTALLMENT III.

Kennedy and I exchanged a glance at mention of Butler's name. He decided to take advantage of Tibbets' offer. We got in the little car and Tibbets made good. It could travel and he wasn't afraid to let it out. "That's Lowndes' ranch," he pointed out, after riding what seemed half across a state, but in Texas was merely half across a county, "a pretty one. Lowndes is on one side of me and Butler is on the other. Both are fine, but Butler's not so old. Going strong for a youngster, though." Tibbets laughed good-naturedly at his own humor. "Yes, sir. After we stop at Dixie I'll stop over at Butler's and see if he is home. He used to live in the east, years ago. He might like to get a little news from the east, first hand. You'll like him, most everybody does. The boys on his ranch like him mighty well. They like him better than the missus," and he chuckled softly to himself.

Dixie ranch was like many others, teeming with excitement, elemental. Out in the yard we met many of the men. Tibbets was a big cattle raiser, one of the largest in Texas, and employed many men. Even the ponies seemed to be on their mettle, beautiful beasts with fiery, impatient eyes, yet knowing the will of their masters. Tomorrow was opening, but the big day was still to come after that at the fair. They were putting on finishing touches for that.

It was regretfully that I left Dixie ranch. But there was a kick in the idea that Tibbets put forward. "Had enough of Dixie for one day?" he smiled. "You can come back here again. It's getting late. On the way 'round back to the Hollow I'd like to take you over to Butler's."

Kennedy had been quietly hinting at and promoting the idea. Now it came out as the spontaneous fruit of the hospitality of Tibbets.

It was about five miles away, by detour, and it seemed as if that little car flew. The Butler place looked newer than Dixie ranch. The house was more modern, rather fancy in appearance. It made me think of those people who use the word "swell." With them elegance never means simplicity, no matter how elegant simplicity may be. It was just "swell."

It seemed quiet about the place. Only from the cattle yards came any evidence of life at all. There we heard voices and the lowing of cattle. Finally a man came forward to greet us. He was rather awkward and slender. I knew that wasn't Hen Butler. "Mr. Butler's in the Hollow, sir. He's over to Baiting Hollow. I allow, somewhere. I don't know where. Any word, Mr. Tibbets?"

"No, no word, Duke. Just brought over a couple of friends to see the place. . . . S'long, Duke!"

We were off again. "Calculate we might as well be getting along back to that hotel. Might meet Butler over there tonight. Can't tell. The crowd goes to bed early."

It was after midnight when we reached the hotel. Tibbets scanned the crowd carefully for his nearest two neighbors. Vic Lowndes we met and liked. But Butler hadn't showed up, at least not yet. He might have gone on direct to Junction City. I hazarded. But the clerk, Peck, insisted not that he was somewhere in Baiting Hollow and would make the hotel his headquarters.

I was disappointed. But Kennedy was ready to make the best of it. "We know there is a Henry Butler," he observed. "We know where he lives when he's home. Even if we can't find him in Baiting Hollow tonight, we may do so tomorrow. And we know a man who knows both of us, now. That will remove suspicion from his mind, if he has any." We met many people that night, but no Hen Butler. We heard enough about him and his men. They were known to be a determined lot, set on carrying home the most of the prizes. Craig called up Mary and told her what had happened. He was impatient, though not anxious. But I was restless that I could scarcely sleep in the strange surroundings. Toward morning, when I might have put in a bit of sleep, it seemed to me as if all Texas was stirring in that hotel. I got up and dressed, but not before Kennedy.

"How do you like cattle hours?" I asked.

"I just don't want to miss anything," he replied. The upshot of it all was that we went to the fair with the others. It seemed as if all the county was there, and a couple of adjoining counties. There was something doing every minute and in the excitement we were separated from Tibbets and did not meet Butler. But Kennedy had promised to meet Tibbets at the hotel in Baiting Hollow that night and we were hoping Butler would be there then, too.

The little hotel was crowded when we arrived. We looked in at the dining room. It was full and everyone seemed to be talking at once, with much laughter.

Over in one corner there seemed to be a crowd bolder even than the rest. I wondered who they were and was wishing Tibbets was here to let us in on who those various local celebrities were. Just then a booming voice shouted our name.

"Kennedy! Jameson! Right over here!" It was Tibbets himself calling us. He and his party were seated next to the hilarious crowd.

"Butler's here tonight," Tibbets whispered. "Over in that corner. Celebratin'. He's happy tonight. His men carried off a good many prizes. But my cattle got most of the honors. Glory for Butler's men, but reputation and money for my ranch. That's how it sizes up. Next year we'll get everything. The boys are talking it up already. I'd like to have you meet Hen. He's kind of lively now. You can overlook that. You can't blame a man for celebratin' once in a while." I looked over in the direction Tibbets was looking. "Hey, Butler!" Butler raised his hand and beckoned us over. It took only a few minutes to tell how we had missed him. He evidently felt it was a good thing. His cordiality to friends of Tibbets' rivaled the native-born Texans. He was full of joy at the victory for the men of his native county.

Kennedy began by flattering him subtly, especially when Tibbets was called by a name which was a word of conversation of his table.

Each problem has a subscription requirement of its own. To win a prize, you must not only send in your answer, but you must also accompany your answer with the PROPER subscription requirement for the problem you are solving. Payment in the form of check, money order or cash must be included with your subscription and answer.

Your own subscription can be renewed and is satisfactory. Your new subscriber (REQUIRED ONLY FOR PRIZE LIST NO. 1) may live anywhere in the United States.

To compete in ALL THREE PRIZE LISTS, AND TO GIVE YOURSELF A CHANCE TO WIN THREE PRIZES WORTH OVER $4,000.00 requires three annual subscriptions (one of which must be new) and one six-months' subscription accompanied by a total remittance of $33.50.

The subscription requirement for the prize list headed by the $2,193 prize is two annual subscriptions accompanied by $19; for the prize list headed by a $1,198 prize, one annual subscription accompanied by $9.50; and for the prize list headed by a $715 prize, one six-months' subscription, accompanied by $5.

At this writing the proportion of contestants competing for the $1,198 and $715 prizes as contrasted against those competing for the $2,193 prize is six to one.

THE RULES

1. "RITHMETIC" is open to all residents in the state of Georgia, and adjoining states, namely: Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee, with the exception of employees of The Atlanta Constitution and members of their families.

2. Entrants in "RITHMETIC" will be required to correctly add the numbers on any one or two or all three illustrations, each illustration representing a truck load of coal. Each illustration is known as a "Problem" and the "Problem" will be designated as "Problem No. 1," "Problem No. 2" and "Problem No. 3."

3. Three lists of prizes which will be known as "Prize List No. 1," "Prize List No. 2" and "Prize List No. 3" will be awarded. The person or persons correctly naming the total represented by any one or any two or all three of the three problems shall be eligible for first prize in whatever prize list (whether 1, 2 or 3) such contestant is competing in. The person or persons submitting the next nearest correct answer to any one or any two or all three of the "Problems" shall be eligible for the additional prizes in order of the correctness of the answers providing conformity is made to all the rules of RITHMETIC.

4. To qualify for a prize in "RITHMETIC," each contestant must qualify his or her answers as follows:

PRIZE LIST NO. 1 requires 2 annual subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Atlanta Constitution, one of which must be new, at $9.50 each and accompanied by $19.00 in the form of money order, check or cash.

PRIZE LIST NO. 2 requires 1 annual subscription to The Daily and Sunday Atlanta Constitution, either new or a renewal, accompanied by $9.50 in the form of money order, check or cash.

PRIZE LIST NO. 3 requires 1 six-months' subscription to The Daily and Sunday Atlanta Constitution, either new or a renewal, and must be accompanied by $5 in the form of money order, check or cash. No solution unaccompanied by remittance as stated in Prize Lists Nos. 1, 2 and 3 will be recorded.

5. The contest will be closed to the public on February 14, 1929, at which time all solutions accompanied by the subscription requirement must be delivered to the office of The Atlanta Constitution by midnight, February 14, 1929, or mailed at any Postoffice in Georgia or adjoining states bearing postmark of no later date than February 14, 1929. The result will be published as nearly as possible within from ten to fifteen days thereafter.

6. Any contestant is privileged to compete for an award in any one or all three of the prize lists and any contestant may win an award in each prize list. However, no contestant can win more than one prize out of each prize list. Any person upon entering or upon sending in an answer to RITHMETIC agrees to accept as final the decision of The Atlanta Constitution upon any or all questions that may be raised in the conducting of "RITHMETIC" and in the making of awards.

7. For each additional annual subscription, either new or renewal, and accompanied by $9.50 and over and above the requirement for each prize list, a contestant is privileged to submit an additional answer to the "Problem" in which that contestant is qualified. In other words, a contestant would be permitted to submit two sets of answers to "Prize List No. 1" if the 2 answers were accompanied by 3 annual subscriptions, whereas a contestant in "Prize List No. 2" would be required to submit 2 annual subscriptions in order to submit 2 sets of answers to "Prize List No. 2."

8. A contestant is privileged to advance from one prize list to another or to direct that his qualifying subscriptions be applied to whatever prize list he may choose, providing such notice is given in writing to The Atlanta Constitution on or before 12 days following the close of the contest.

9. In case of ties as many prizes will be reserved in each prize list as there are people tied in that prize list before any prize is awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more people should tie in submitting correct or nearest correct answers to any one of the problems, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for those persons so tying, and the prizes will be awarded in the correctness of the answers to such contestants to a second problem which will consist of adding another series of numbers. If any ties still remain a third problem, consisting of numbers arranged in parallel and horizontal lines, and which is to be solved by starting at some number in the left-hand column of the numbered chart, drawing a line perpendicularly and horizontally across the chart through a number on the opposite side of the illustration; then adding the numbers through which the line passes, will be presented to the tying contestants. The contestant whose line passes through the numbers added, will be declared the highest, etc. If necessary to eliminate further ties, the same numbered chart with slightly changed rules will be submitted, and this repeated, if necessary, as many as four times, after which, should any ties exist for any award, each tying contestant will be given a duplicate prize.

John Ferguson Again Proves Quality of Guild Company

Psychological drama of a quality written by only a fortunate few playwrights is "John Ferguson," stark tragedy of Irish life, by the eminent British-American writer and critic, Sir John Galsworthy. The Theater Guild representative players, presenting the play for the second time in their current Atlanta season, Wednesday afternoon, proved again that their mastery of unrelievedly heavy roles is as complete and as pleasing as their interpretations of the lighter parts of Shaw and Behman.

In the title role Sir John has developed a character of great dramatic strength and one such as is rarely encountered on the boards of any theater. John Ferguson, the central figure in the story of Irish peasant life with its manifold vicissitudes, is a man who is interesting in his very difference, Champion and believer in a crude sort of determinism, this old peasant in the face of repeated misfortune struggles earnestly to see the divine plan.

Clings to Philosophy.

He clings to his enunciated philosophy in the face of ill health, financial ruin, following the wronging of his daughter by his hard-hearted persecutor, and even as his son goes to take his punishment for the slaying of his sister's betrayer. Only once in one dramatic moment, when he learns of his son's intention to take his punishment for a crime of which he is not suspected, does the old man break, and then only momentarily. The end finds him back with the consolation of his Bible, seated beside his wife, resigned to his fate and struggling patiently with the wronging of his daughter by his hard-hearted persecutor, and even as his son goes to take his punishment for the slaying of his sister's betrayer.

Arranged around this extraordinary man are his wife, Sarah Ferguson, who is torn at times between love for her children and love for her husband and finds in the end only the solace of the latter, failing to feel his lofty forbearance. Elizabeth Riddon does this part.

Superb Skill.

Hannah Ferguson, the unfortunate and emotional daughter, is done with superb skill, marked with a vital realism.

RECEIVING INFLUENZA IN THE DAY IN FINANCE

BY R. L. BARNUM

Receives Verdict of Involuntary Manslaughter With Bowed Head.

Charlotteville, Va., February 13.—(AP)—Henry H. Chewning, Charlottesville automobile salesman, was today convicted of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in corporation court here and sentenced to serve three and one-half years in the Virginia penitentiary for the killing of James K. Summers, Jr., University of Virginia student, of Rye, N. Y., last December 3.

Chewning received the verdict with bowed head, gazing fixedly at the floor. His wife, who has remained constantly by his side during the three days of the trial, sat immovably as the verdict was read by Judge A. H. Dabney.

Immediately upon the reading of the verdict, Judge Dabney overruled a motion for a new trial and defense attorneys served notice of appeal to the Virginia supreme court. W. O. Fife, chief of defense counsel, said later that he expected to base the appeal, to some extent, on what he contended was the lack of opportunity to investigate the state's chief witness, John Larkin, and on the absence of Miss Alice Fowler, who testified with Chewning at the time of the killing. Miss Fowler was summoned by both defense and the commonwealth in the trial, but could not be located.

Symmers was killed in the kitchen, a lunch car situated just off the University of Virginia campus. The state sought to show the killing was deliberate, while Chewning contended that it was accidental. Brightly colored, when a pistol dropped from Chewning's pocket to the floor and was accidentally discharged, the bullet fatally wounding Symmers.

Call money opening at 7-12 per cent dropped from 7 to 6 around noon and later to 6, after which stock prices started to recover under the leadership of the new high of 10 points to a new high of over another 8 in the noon hour. This is one public holding company that General Electric acknowledges controlling.

Opinion in Wall street is mixed as to the possible outcome of the action of the senate in passing the Heflin resolution calling on the federal reserve board to explain recent changes in the discount rate. In some circles it is believed that there has never been any justification of recent high money rates and that the federal reserve will find it difficult to justify the three advances made last year in the discount rate in the face of the present depression.

Others in Wall street, however, believe that the federal reserve board in responding to the Heflin resolution will be able to explain the recent changes in the discount rate in the face of the present depression. A further advance of 1-8 of 1 per cent.

Washington, February 13.—(AP)—Another postponement in putting into operation the new immigration act of 1924 was announced today by the senate immigration committee, 7 to 4.

Senator Nye, republican of Idaho, was author of the resolution for postponement. With the session drawing to a close, opponents of the national origins clause were endeavoring to formulate a plan to win some kind of delay. Unless a postponement is ordered by congress the new quota basis would go into effect next July 1.

The national origins provision would limit the total annual immigration to about 150,000, compared with the 164,000 now allowed. The quotas would be based on the percentage of nationalities represented in this country in the 1920 census instead of two per cent of the nationalities in the 1890 census.

Herbert Hoover in his speech of acceptance declared for repeal of the national origins provision. Senator Nye said tonight he was doubtful if the law made it mandatory upon the president to order the new quota basis.

Those on the committee voting against postponement of the national origins provision were Keyes, New Hampshire; Reed, Pennsylvania; Watson, Indiana; and Gould, Maine; republicans; and Harris, Georgia; Blease, South Carolina; and Stephens, Mississippi, democrats. Those for the Nye resolution were Johnson, California; and Nye, republicans; Copeland, New York; and King, Utah, democrats.

Senator Reed led the fight for retention of the national origins provision, despite the position of President-elect Hoover. Reed was supported throughout the hearing by Senator Nye resolution by the American Legion.

Chicago, February 13.—(AP)—A two-year penitentiary sentence and a fine of $11,000 were handed Titus A. Haffa, Chicago counselman and former political lieutenant of Mayor William Hale Thompson, in federal court today. He was convicted last week of operating a $5,000,000 liquor racket.

Denied a new trial, the alderman went to jail, unable for the time being to make the $25,000 appeal bond set by Judge Walter C. Lindley. Haffa, 44, was indicted on charges of conspiracy to defraud the city of Chicago of $1,250,000 in the forty-third ward on the north side of the city, indicated his intention of discontinuing the fight to begin serving his sentence with a short stay.

Four others were found guilty with him and received less severe sentences on the charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

OVER 100 ARE DEAD OF COLD IN BLASTS SWEEPING EUROPE

London, February 13.—(United News).—The almost unprecedented series of cold weather which has taken a great toll of life in Europe in the last few weeks, continued unmitigated tonight, and dispatches from almost every country between the North sea and the Bosphorus brought reports of critical situations.

Deaths due directly to the cold weather have gone well over 100 since Monday, and there appeared to be no weakening of the grasp of the most severe winter weather in the memory of living men. Influenza has added thousands to the death toll and many other deaths have been laid indirectly to the weather conditions.

The reports received today added untold suffering to the picture of a continent almost blanketed by snow and bounded by masses of ice to the north.

STOCK MARKET BOILS WITH PRICES UP FROM ONE TO EIGHT POINTS AS RESULT RESERVE MEET.

New York, February 13.—With the New York Federal Reserve bank directors issuing no statement following the special meeting held Monday and running until after the close of the stock market, the stock market opened today boiling with prices up from 1 to 8 points in the early trading and with all classes of stocks joining under the leadership of copper, Anaconda and Kennecott making new highs for all time.

Around the end of the first hour a decline started, carrying prices of leading stocks down from 1 to 7 points from the early highs. Wide circulation of the special statement issued to customers by Hornblower & Weeks, one of the largest stock exchange houses serving New York and New England, was only $222,000 against $2,442,000 for 1925 and $5,883,000 for 1926. Last year there was a deficit after dividends of $2,467,000 against the 1925 deficit of $3,570,000 and against the 1926 surplus of $3,083,000. Informed Wall street believes that the railroads will not be paid in full by the equipment market much longer.

Stocks of finished copper in the hands of refiners in North and South America at the close of January stood at 62,749 tons, against 65,456 at the close of December and 52,153 at the end of November. Speculative Wall street is predicting still higher copper prices.

Cassatt & Co. of Philadelphia and New York, is one of the largest, most conservative and best known stock exchange and investment banking firms in the country. Talking to the Pennsylvania Bankers' association convention at Philadelphia, one of the active members of Cassatt & Co. said that "a majority of brokers and investment bankers are not in sympathy with the present trend of the stock market," believing that "the greatest opportunity for investment has passed until there is a complete reconstruction." He pointed out, what informed Wall street knows, that conservative brokers and investment bankers are forcing small traders in the stock market to get out of touch with their customers and allowing them to get out of control. The greatest trouble is that many of you bankers are in the market, he said, and you haven't the courage to tell others to keep out, because the more people in the market the more bullish it will be. Remember, he pointed out, that it is harder to get out than in. The cycle will turn and I want to issue the warning now.

Washington, February 13.—(United News).—Appointment of Representative Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, as democratic leader, to the United States court of customs appeal was recommended to President Coolidge today by Representative Woodruff, republican of Michigan. It is not known whether Garrett would accept the appointment if offered him.

HOOVER ENDS FLORIDA VACATION NEXT WEEK

Plans Early Return To Capital To Prepare for March Fourth.

Miami Beach, Fla., February 13.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover will wind up his Florida vacation early next week, returning to Washington Monday or Tuesday to clear up a number of matters which must receive his attention before March 4.

These include his completion of his inaugural address, final planning for the extra session of the 71st congress in April for the enactment of farm relief and tariff revision and conferences with a number of party leaders.

It was stated, however, that there was no connection between the decision to abandon his quest for tarpon and that to return to Washington next week. Before coming to Florida late last month Mr. Hoover stated that he would return to Washington some time after February 15, but the announcement made today by Lawrence Richey, his secretary, came as something of a surprise to most members of his party. The statement was in this form:

"Mr. Hoover stated before leaving Washington that he expected to return there about February 15 to the 20 in order to complete some work and preparations for the new administration. He expects to leave Miami February 18 or 19."

Carrying out his original plan, the president-elect will not reopen executive headquarters but will have his office in his 8 street home, where he will confer with congressional leaders and others whose judgment he can consult before he takes the oath of office as successor to President Coolidge.
